

WISHES

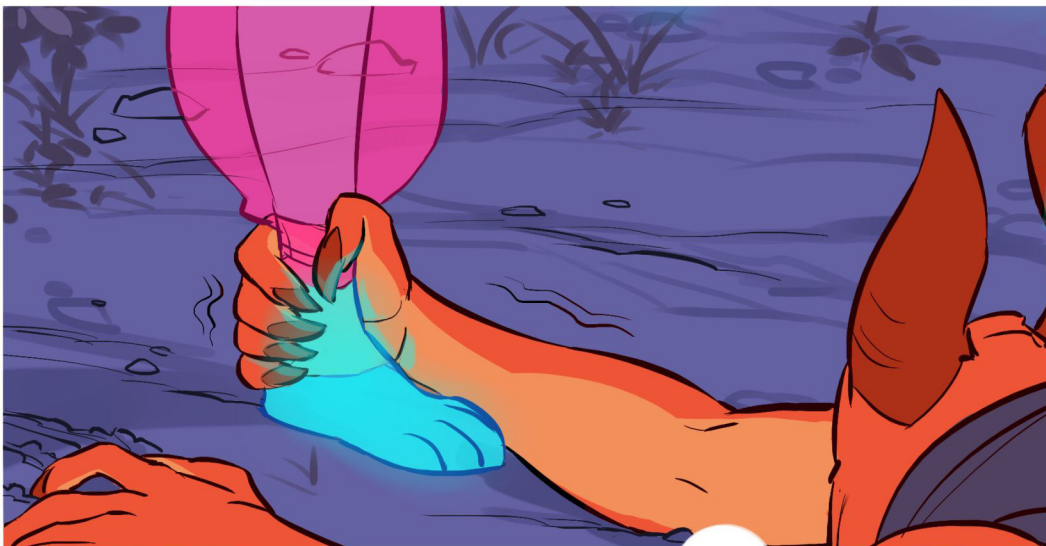

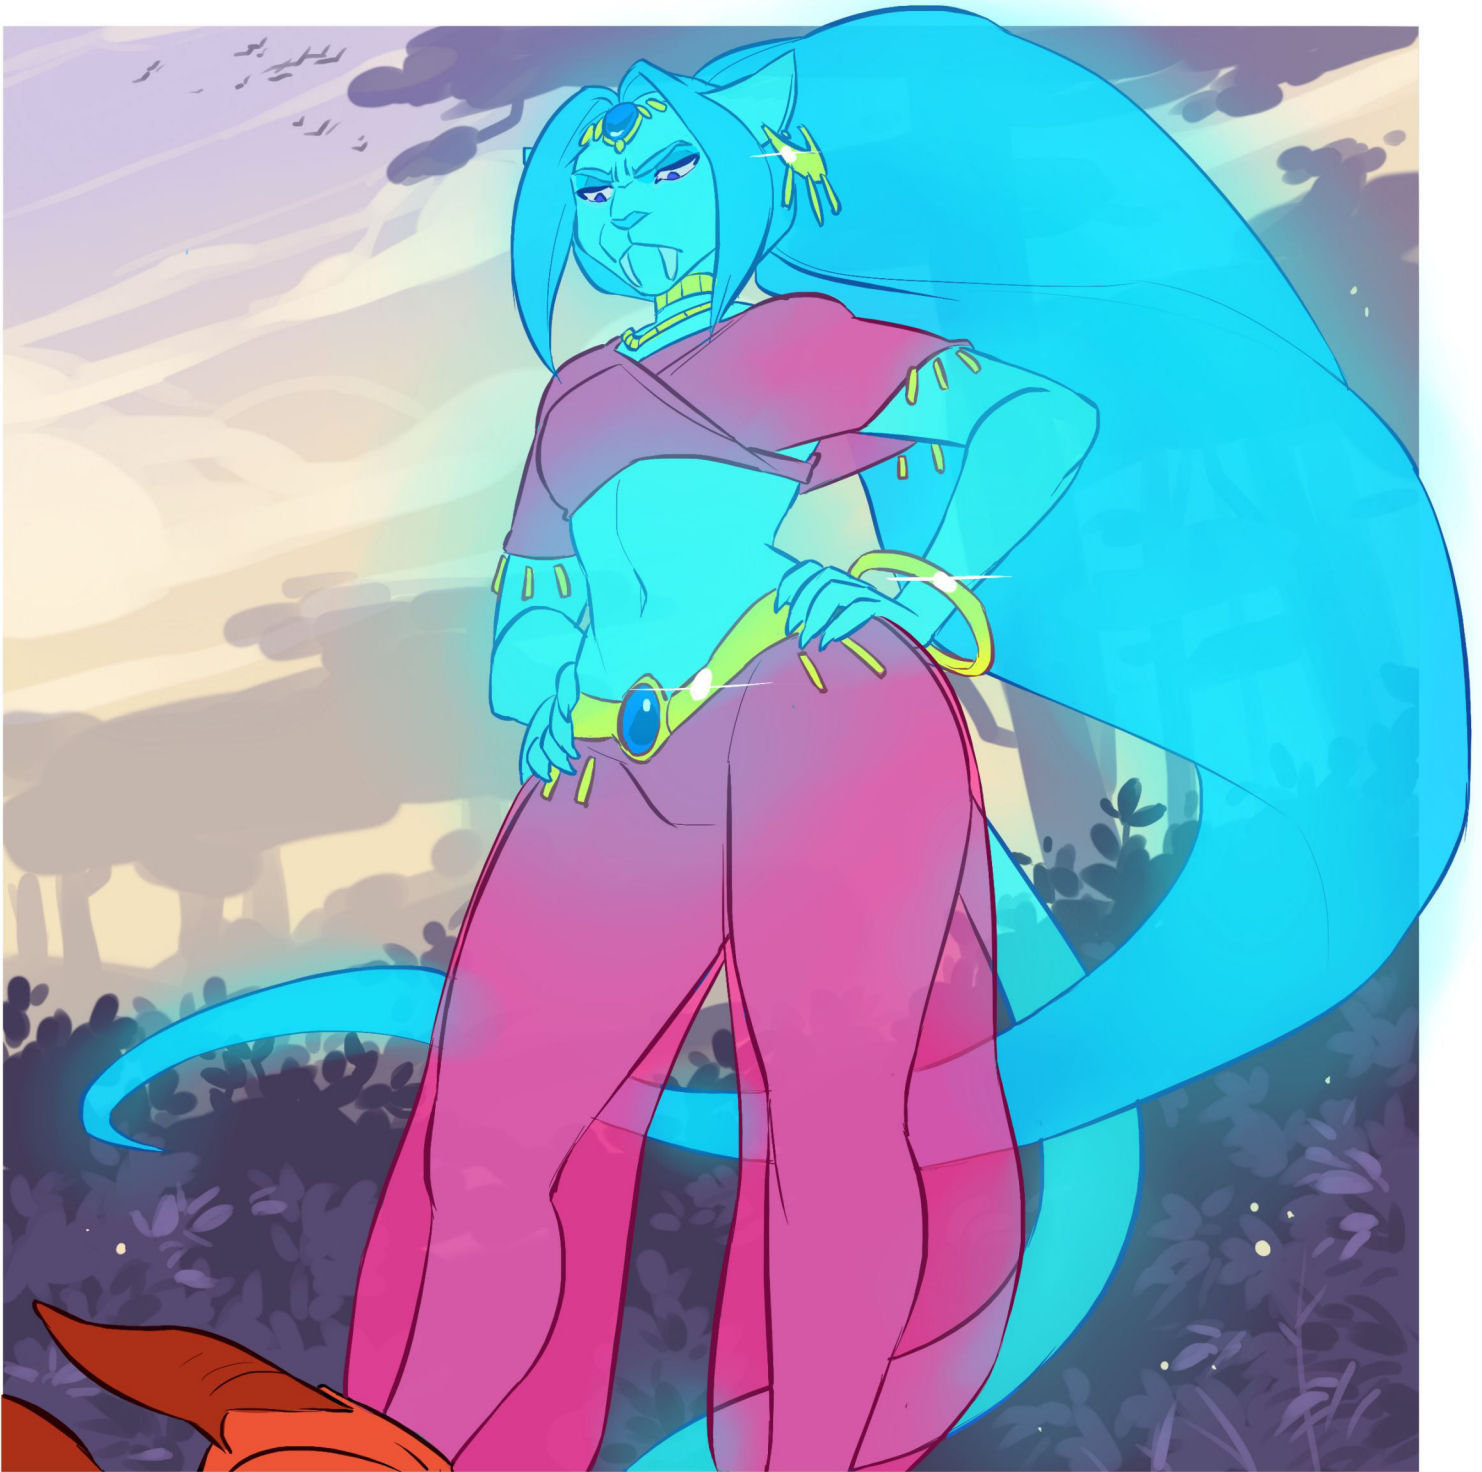

BY ZUMMENG

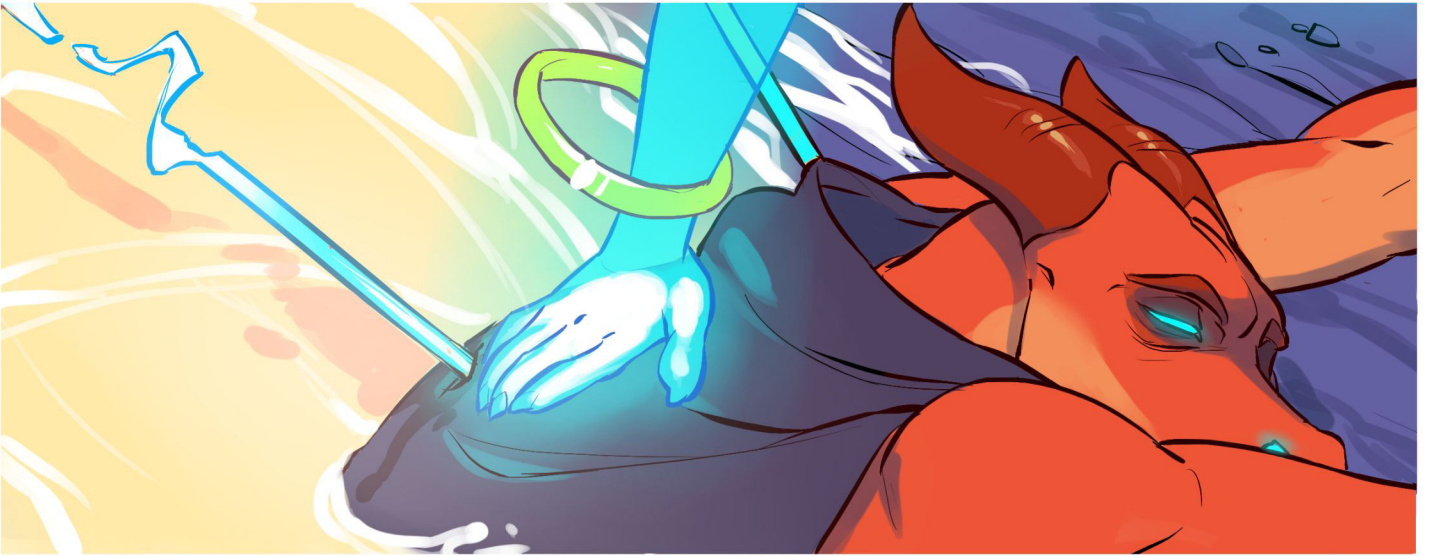

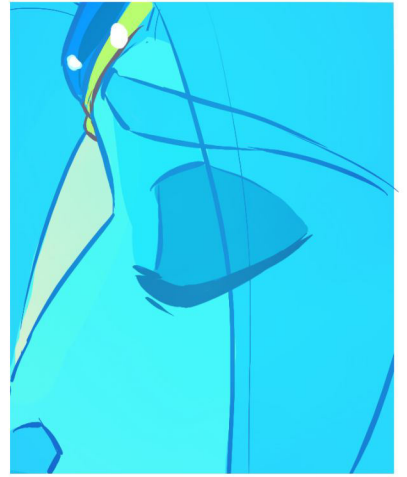

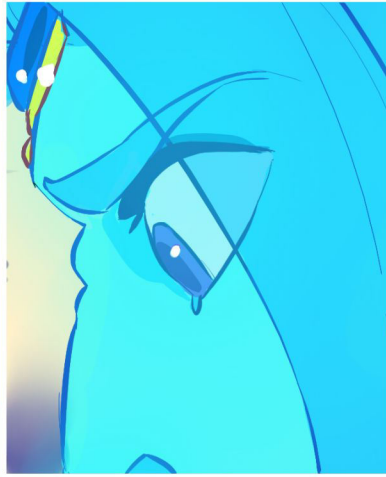

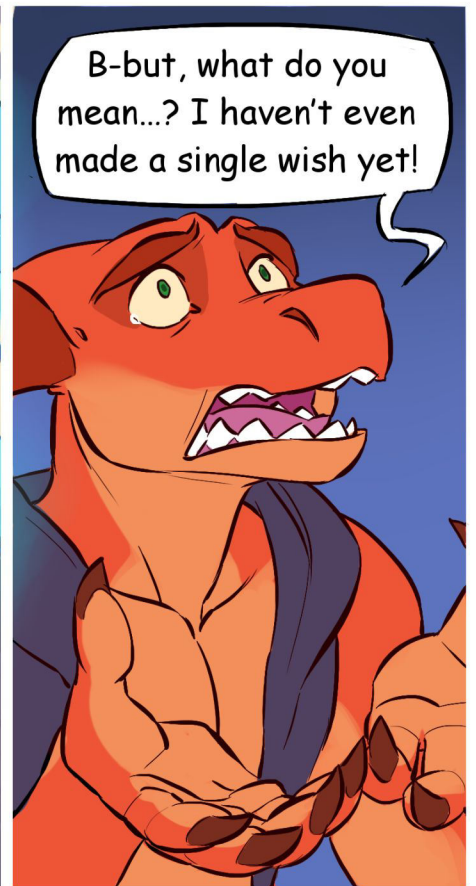

Thank you! You...

Just to make things clear, you have NO MORE wishes!

B-but, what do you mean...? I haven't even made a single wish yet!

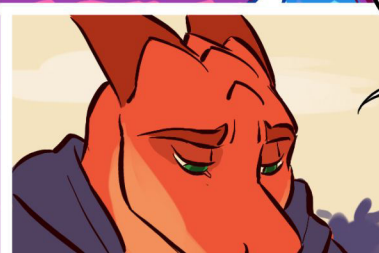

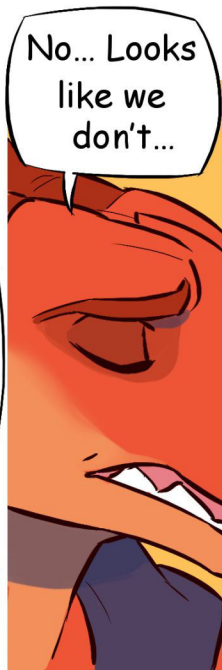

I brought you back from the brink of death, even tough djinns should never play gods. I might have just broken the strictest rule there is for us, by saving your life.

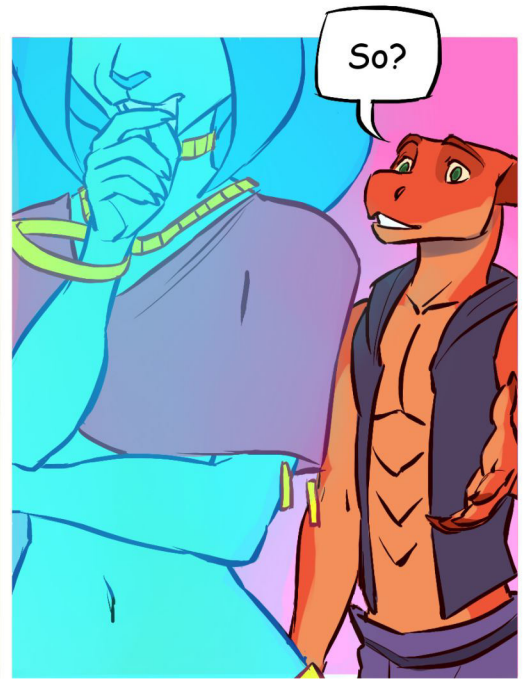

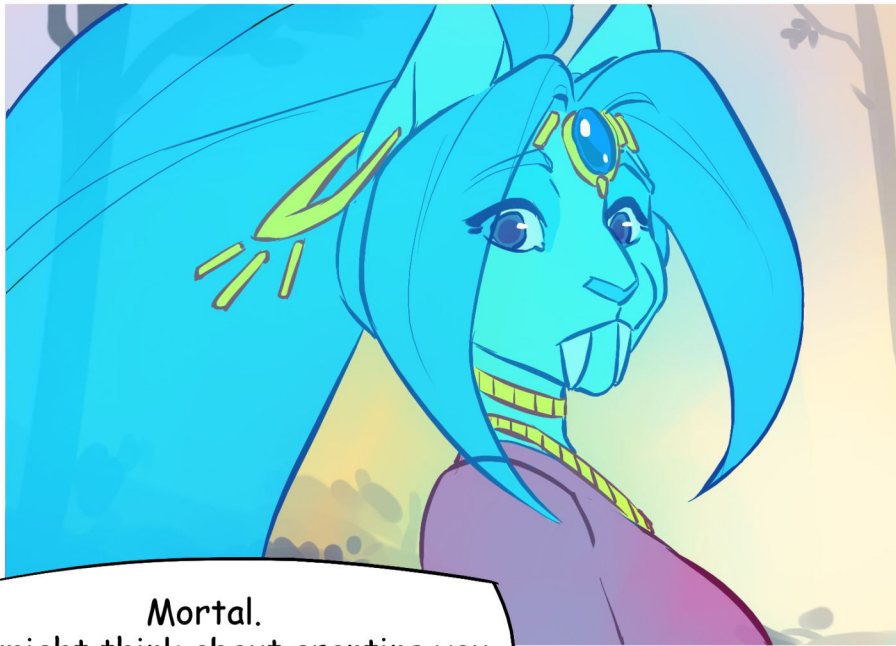

That is why I take all three of your wishes.

And consider yourself lucky you got your dirty little hands on me, and not on some other djinn, because I'm sure any of them would let you die without thinking.

Oh, I see...

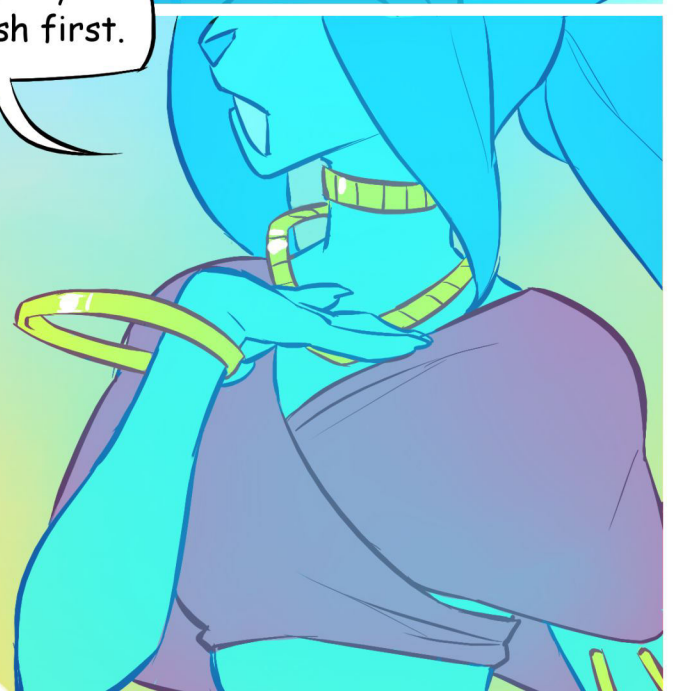

Mortal.
I might think about granting you another wish.

Yes. But only if you...
fulfill MY wish first.

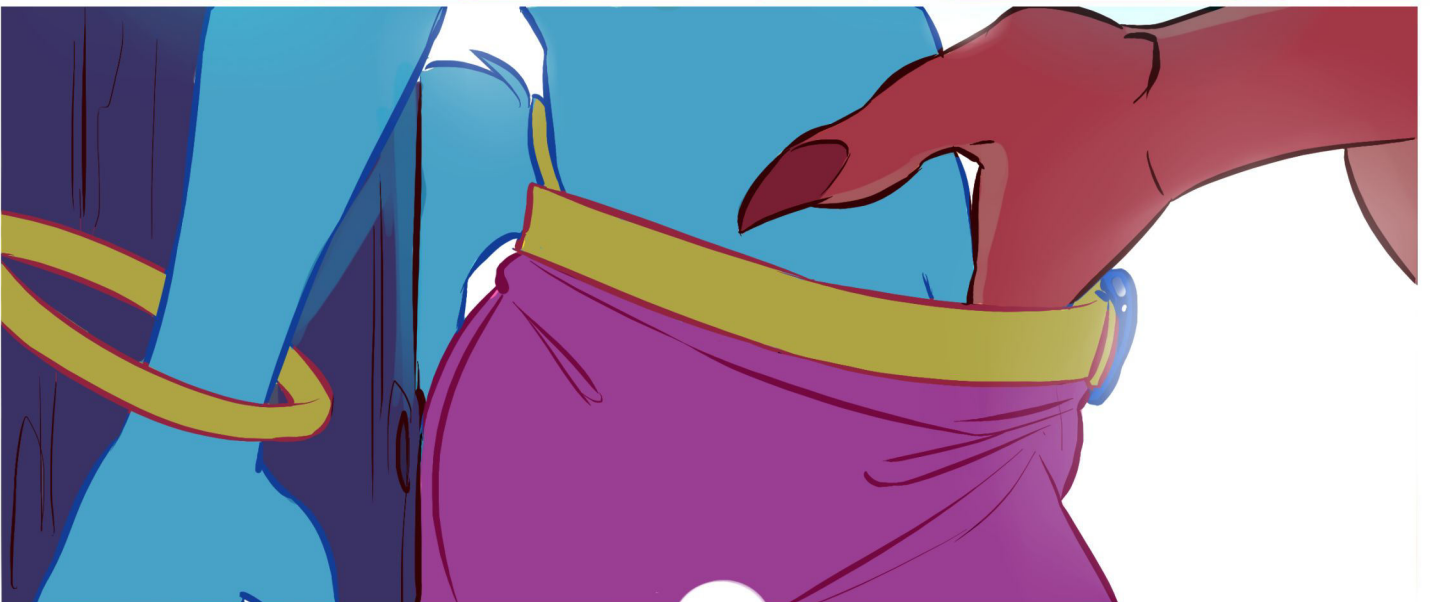

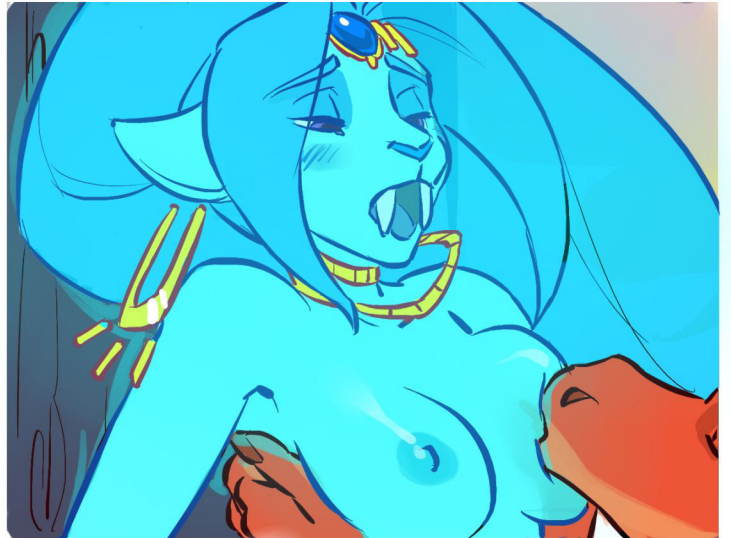

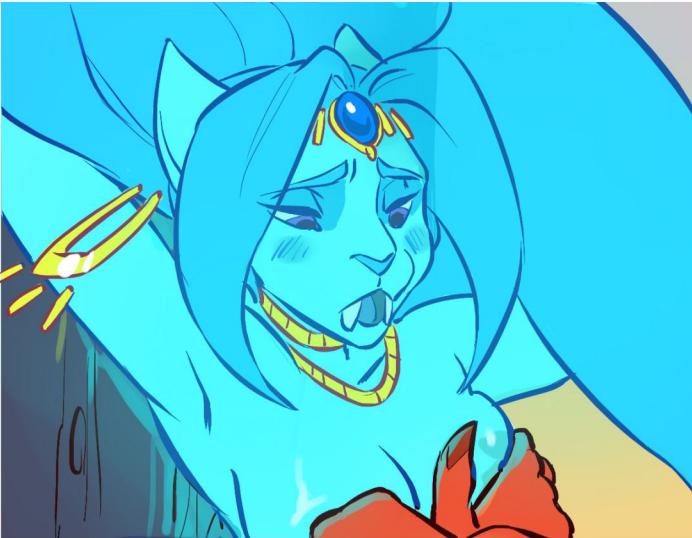

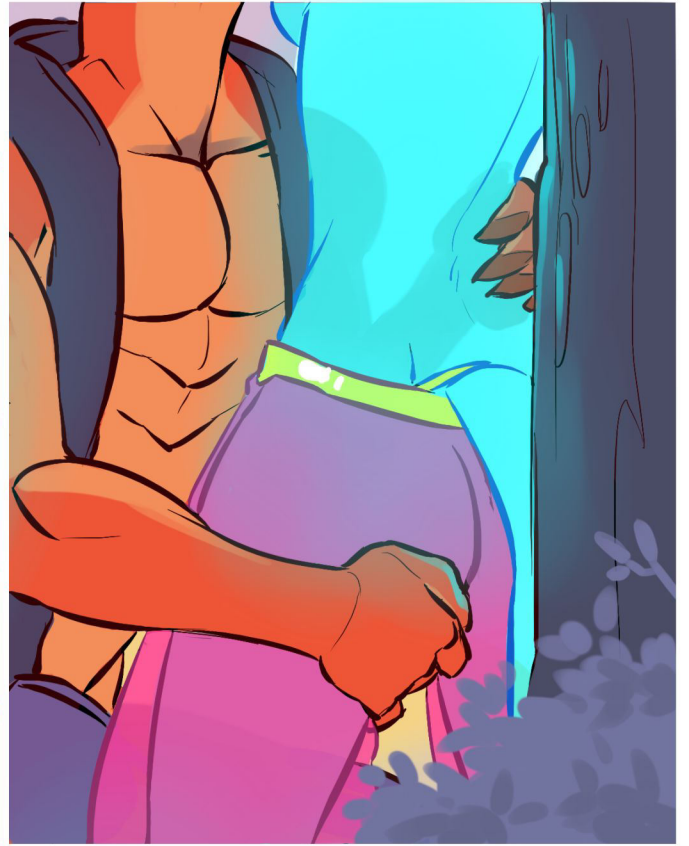

I am a prisoner of that lantern for more than 600 years. No one has found me for more than 200 years. I'm alone for... more than 200 years... Because of our curse, djinns might be the loneliest beings in the world.

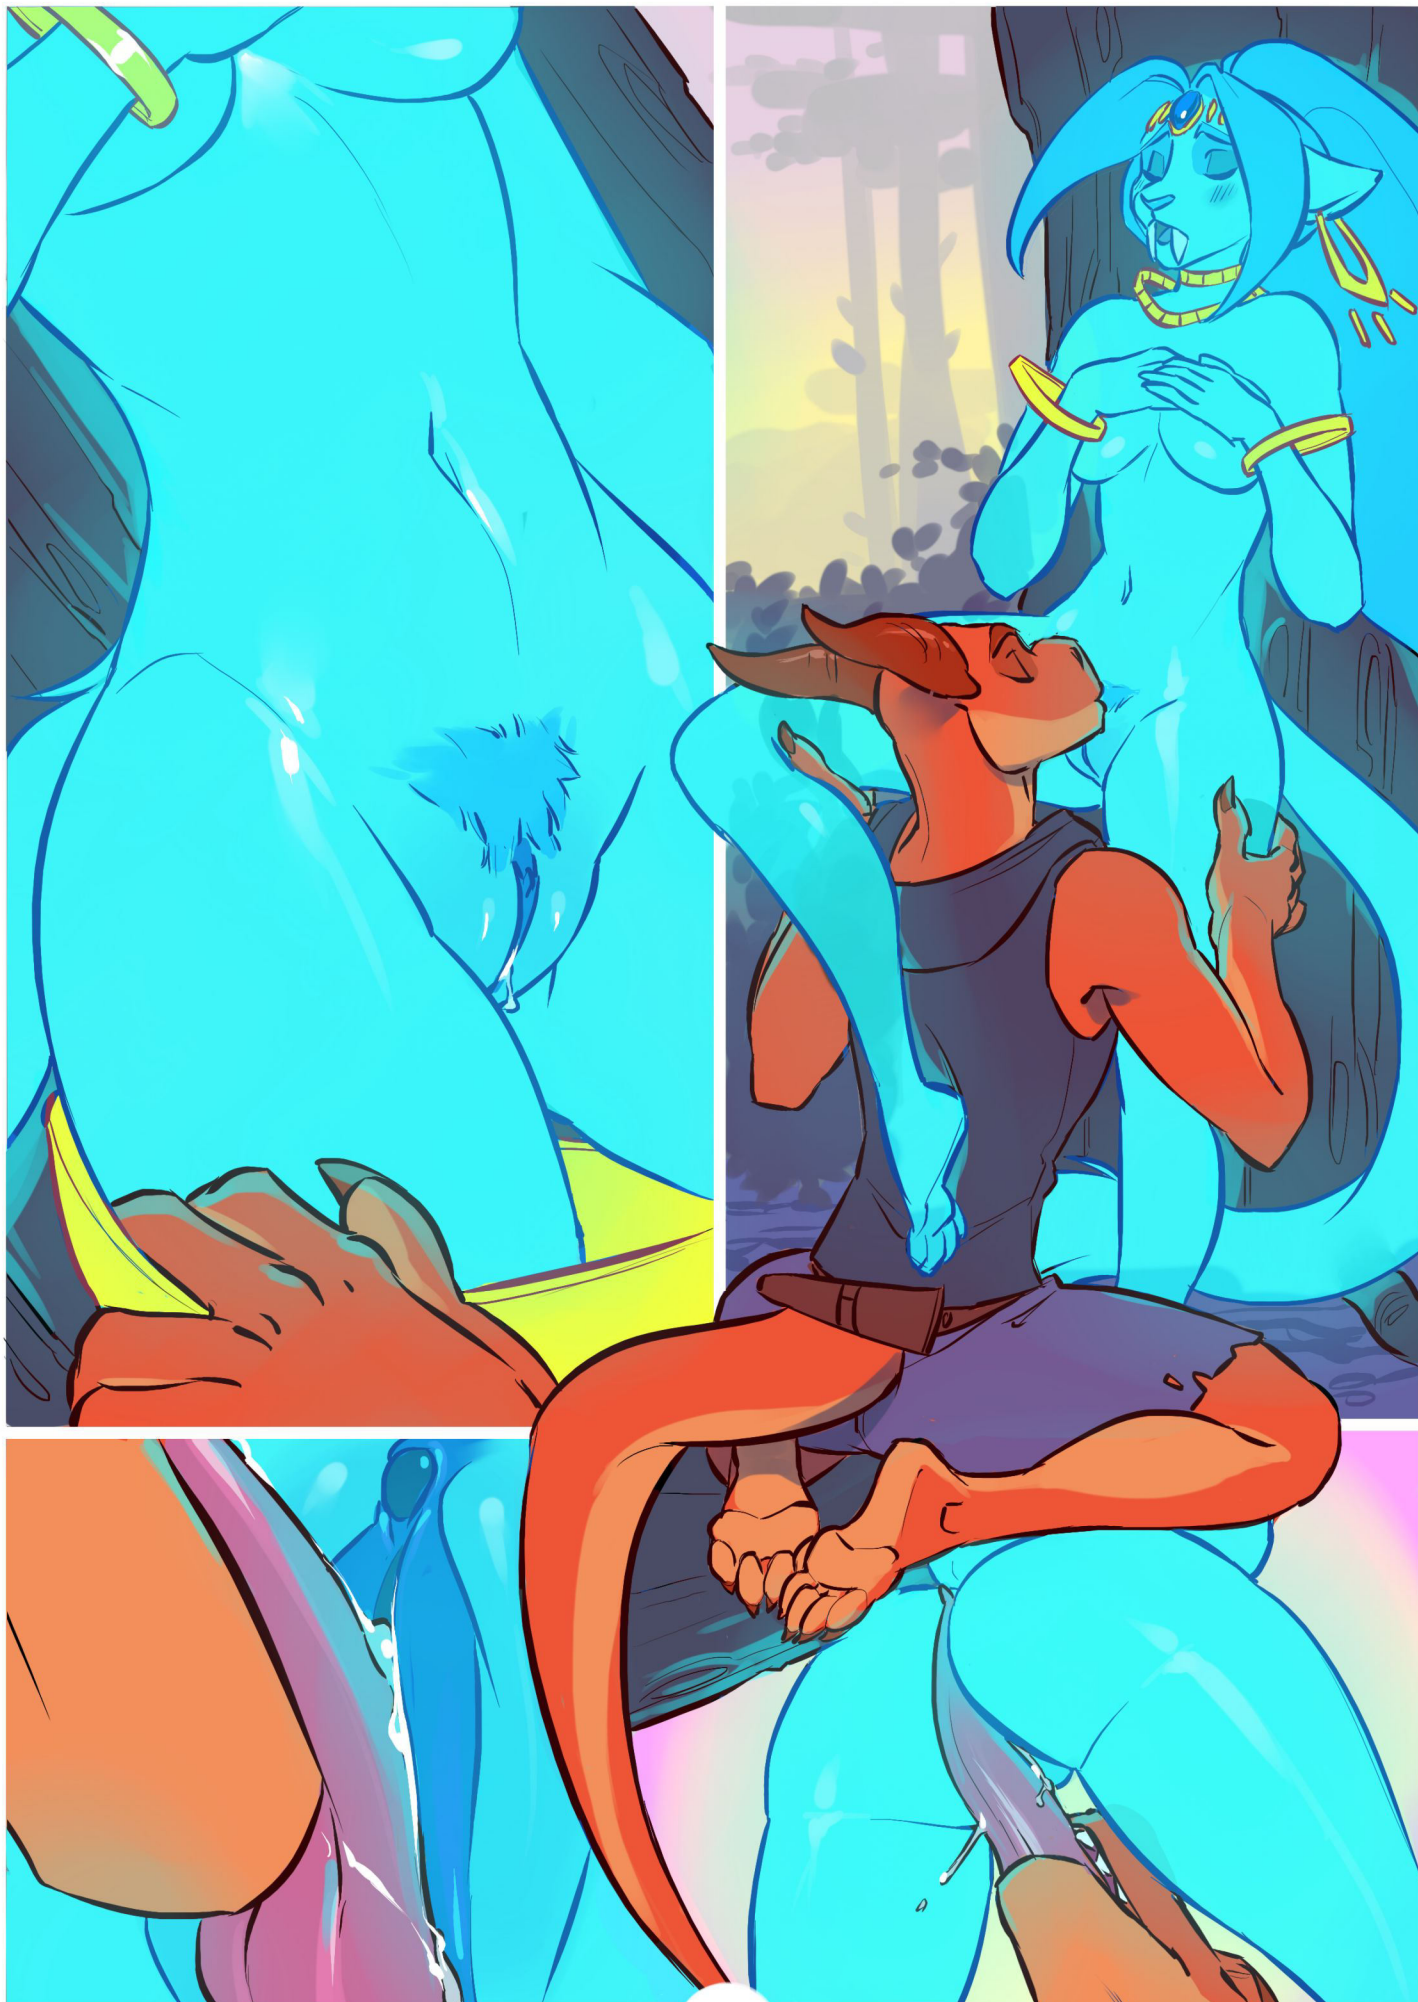

It is so painful just to sit and wait for someone to find your lantern, and call you back to this world. You would not believe how much I thirsted to feel again the warmth of someone's body...

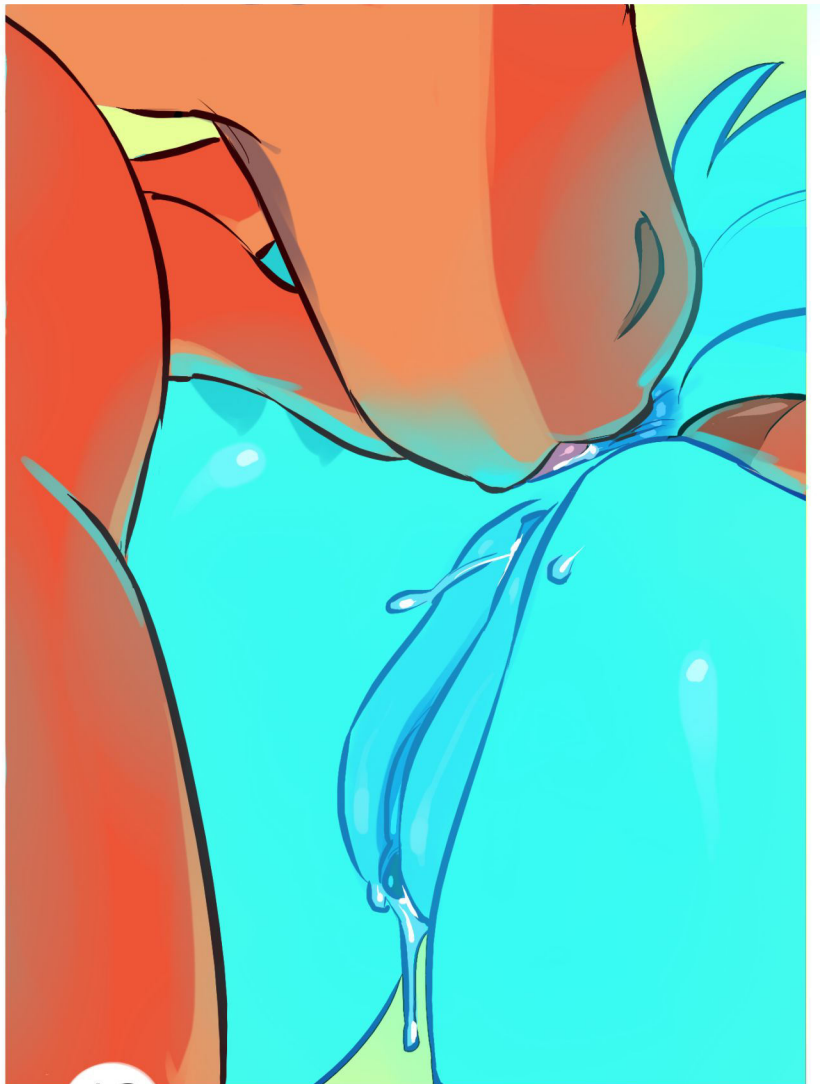

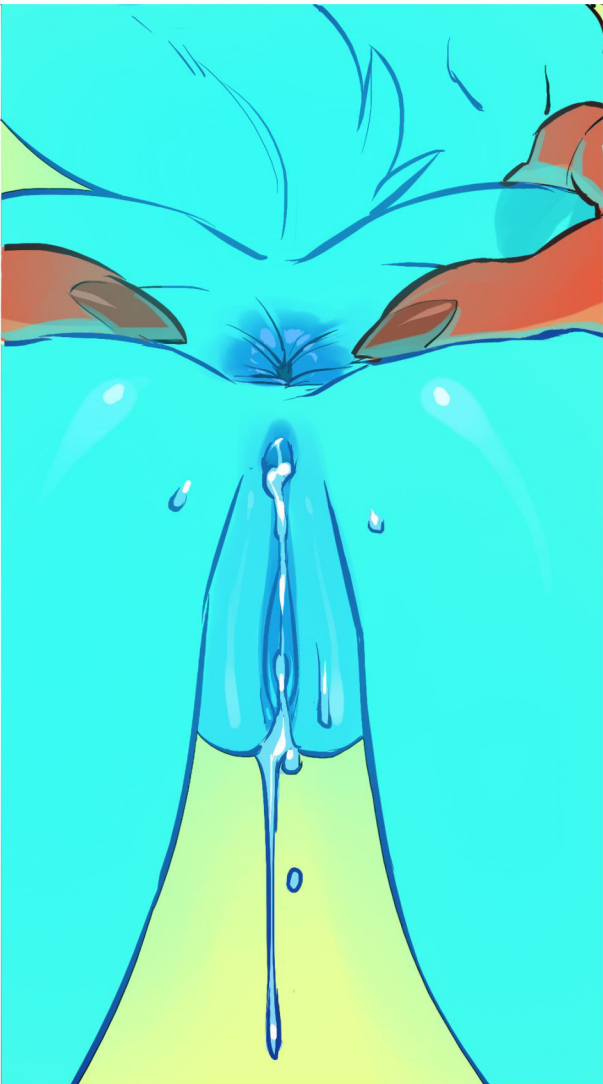

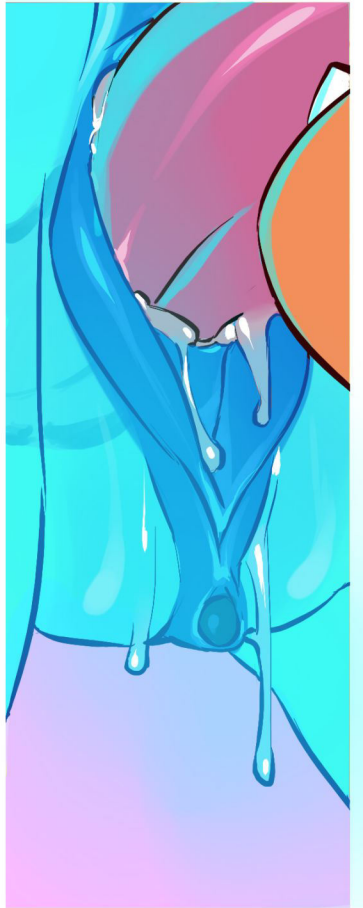

...of someone's embrace...

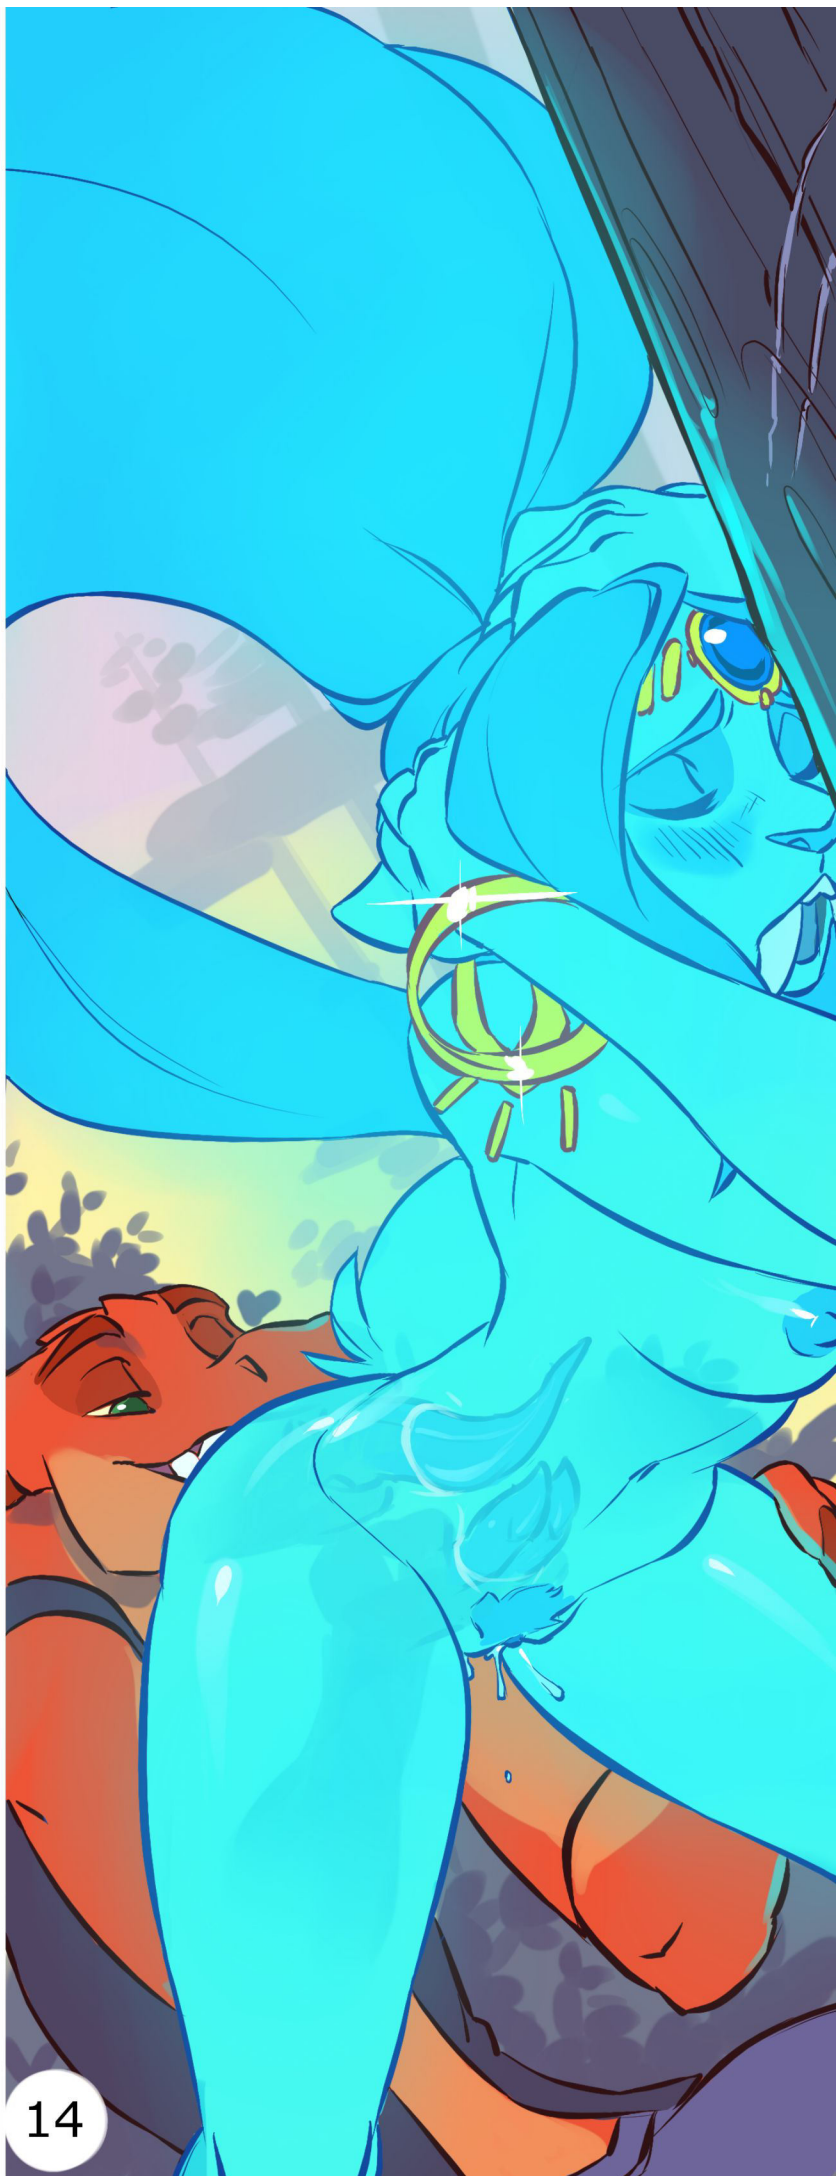

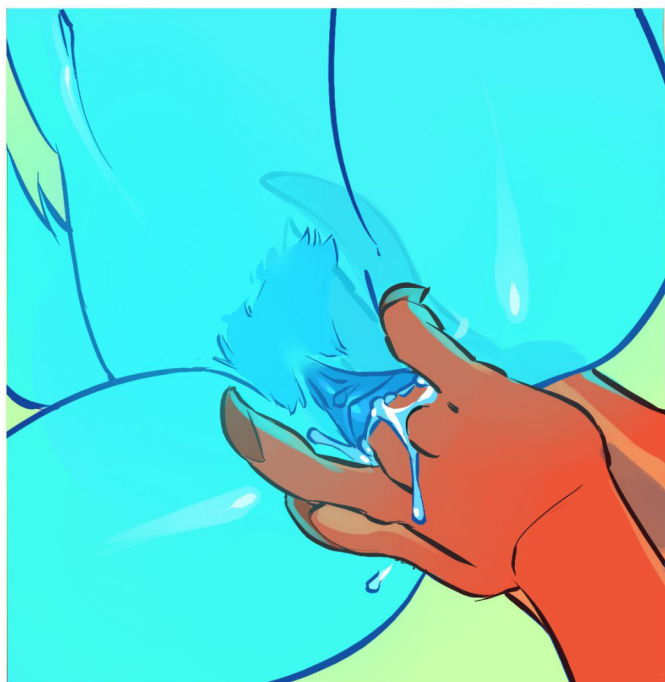

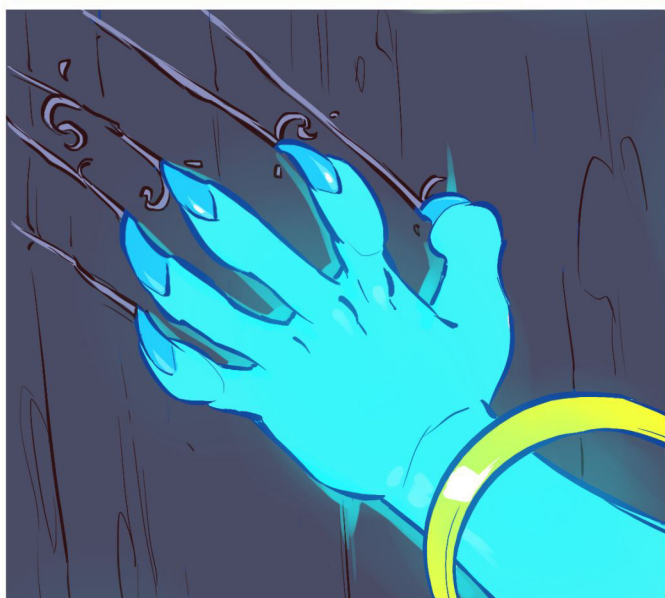

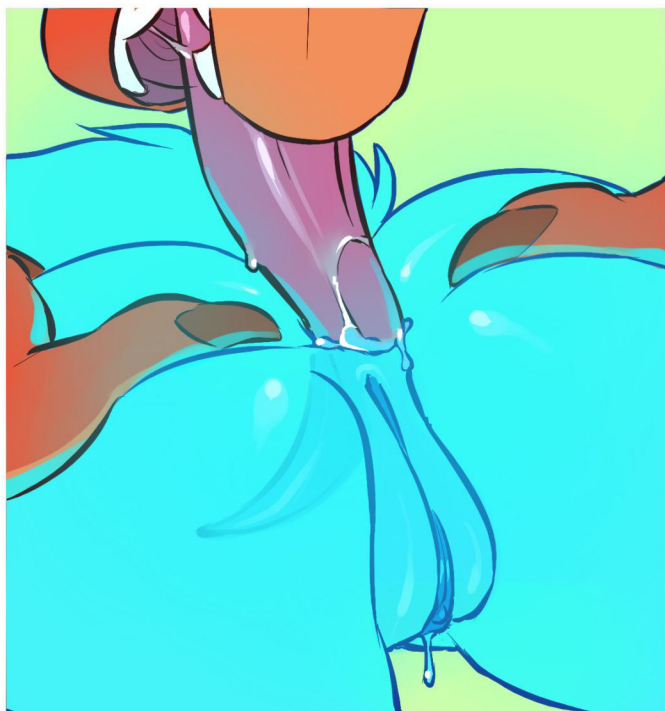

...of someone's kiss.

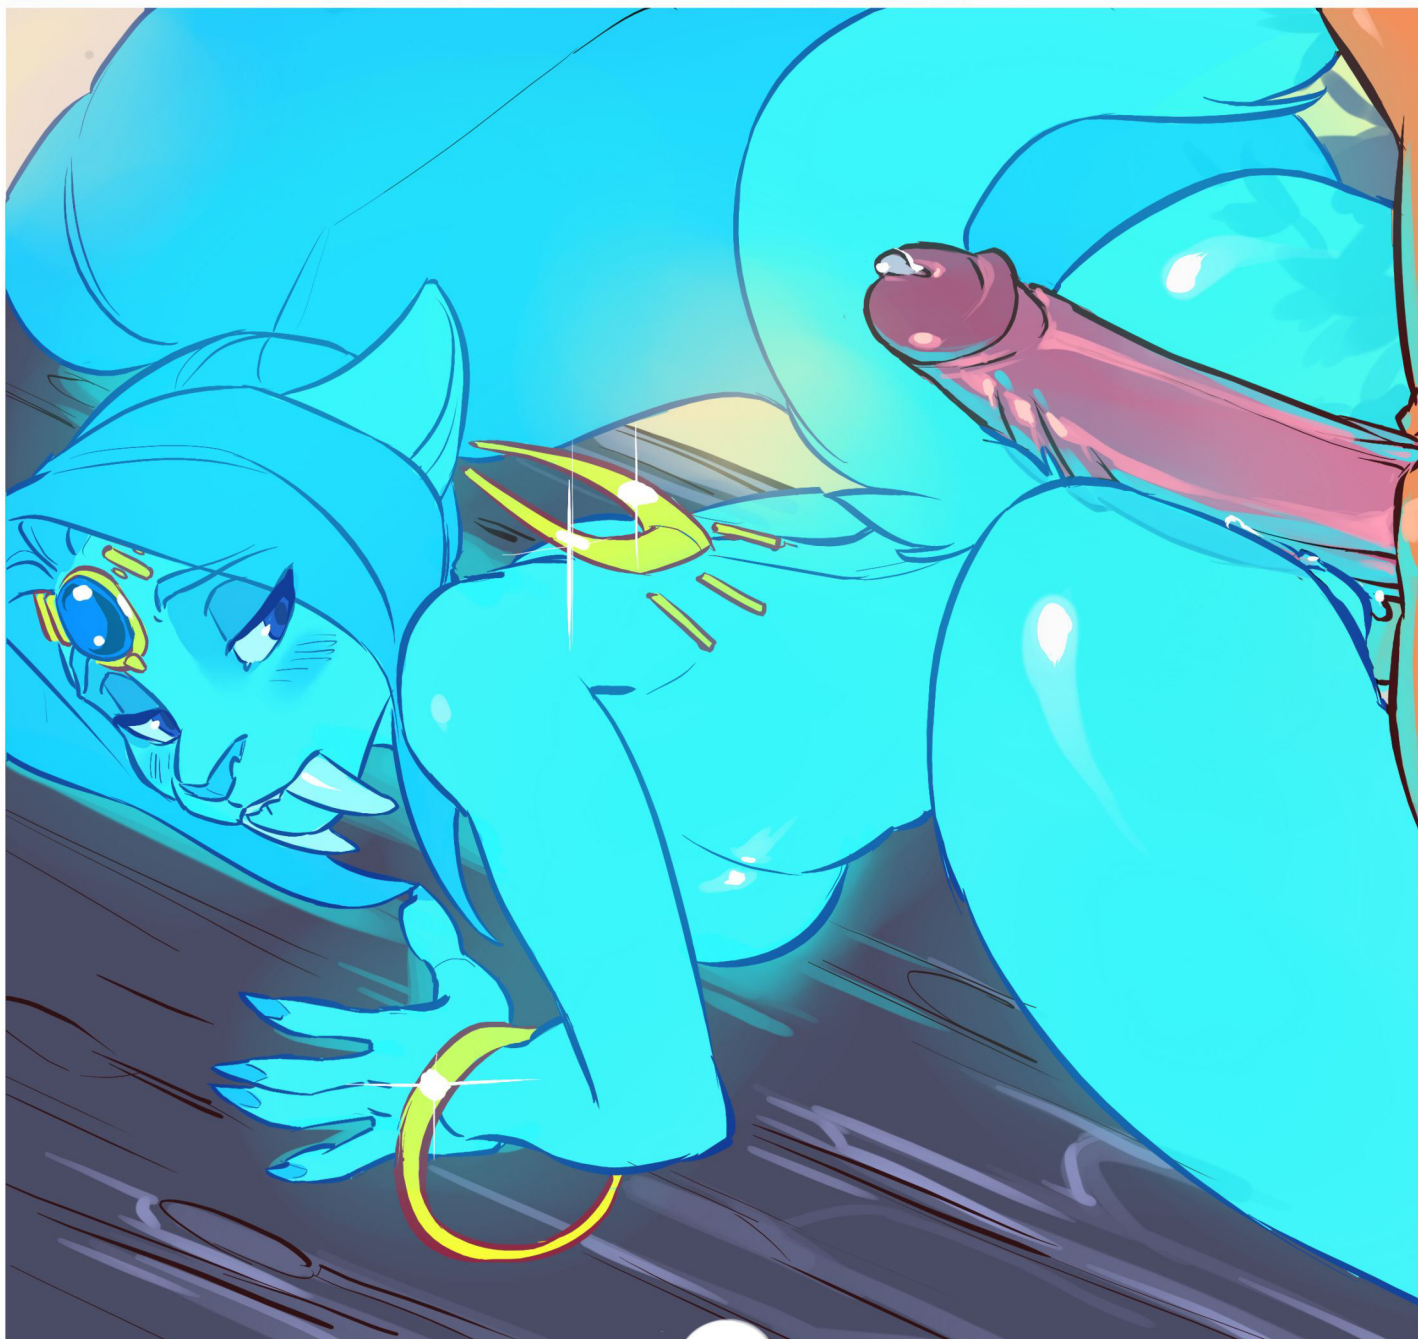

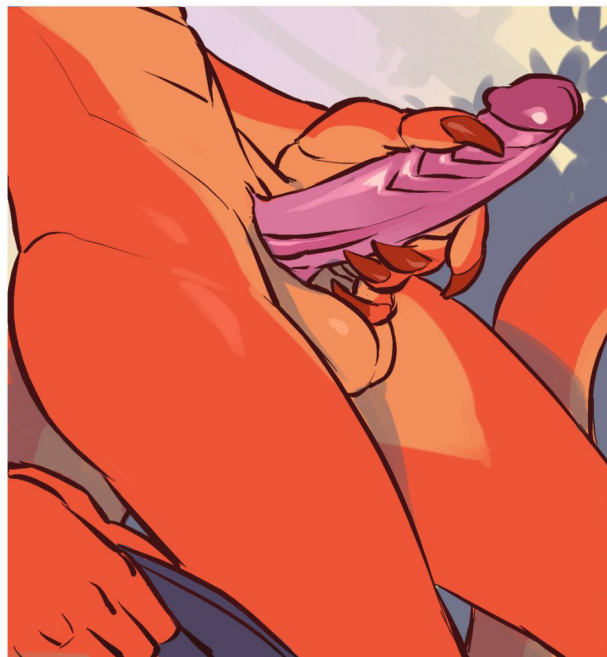

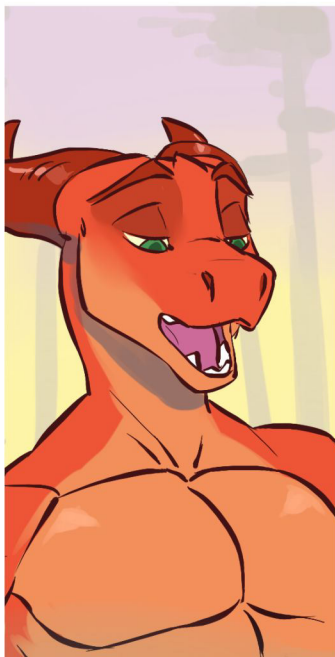

And of someone's love.

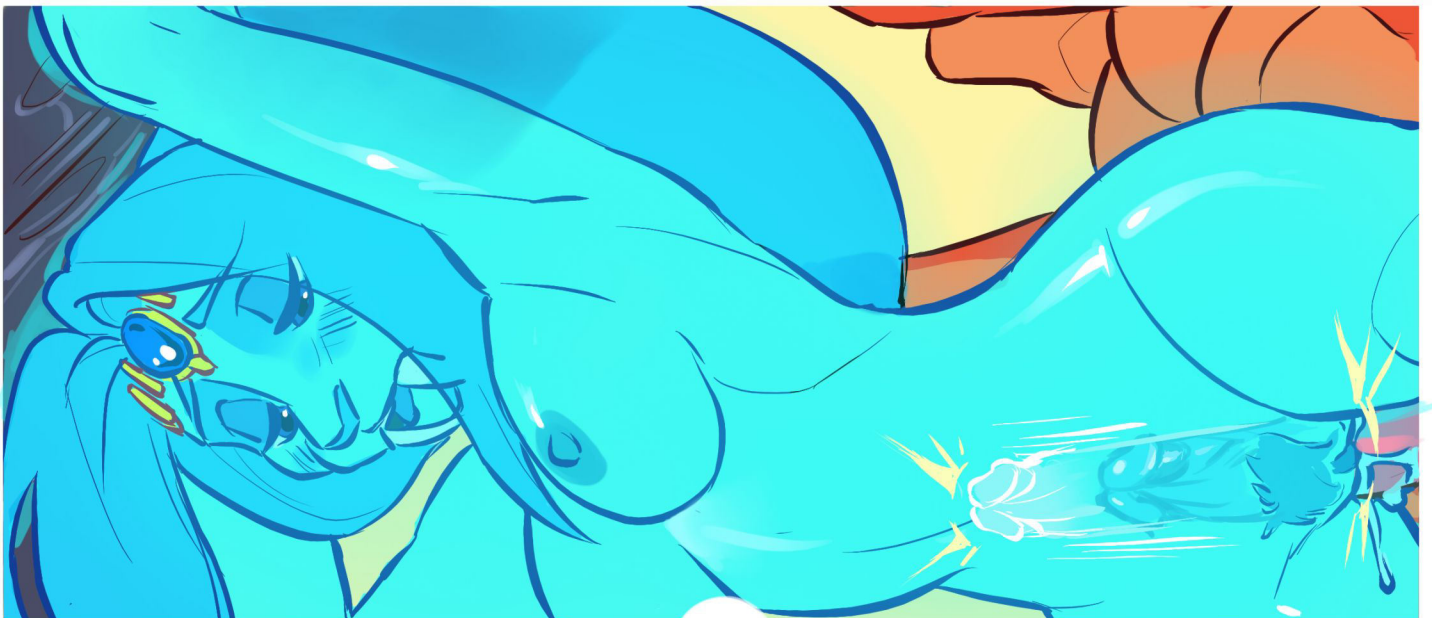

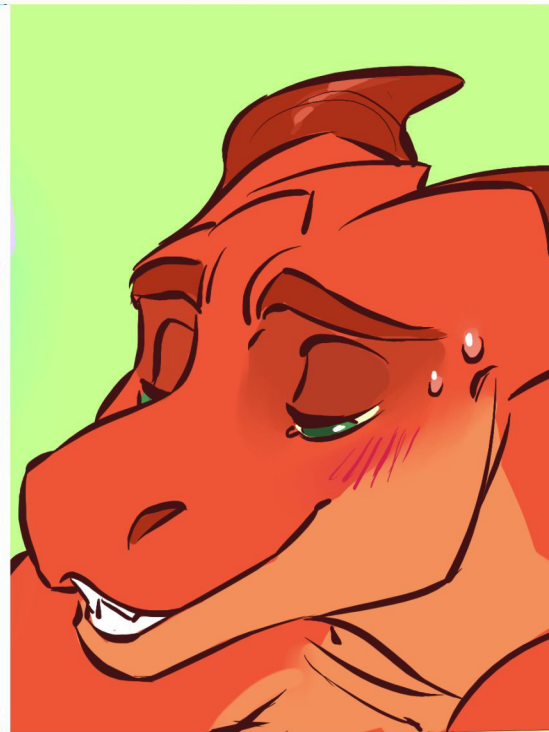

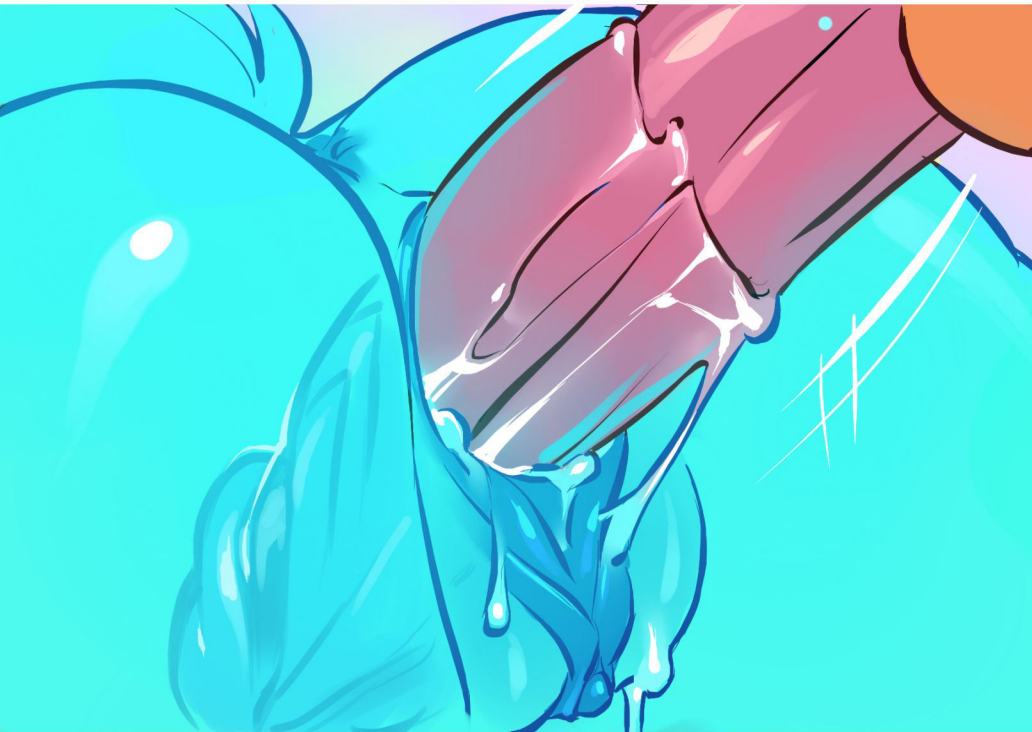

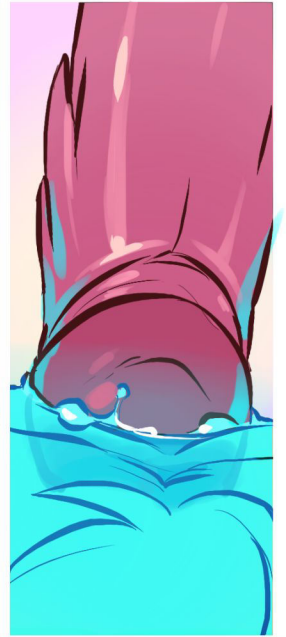

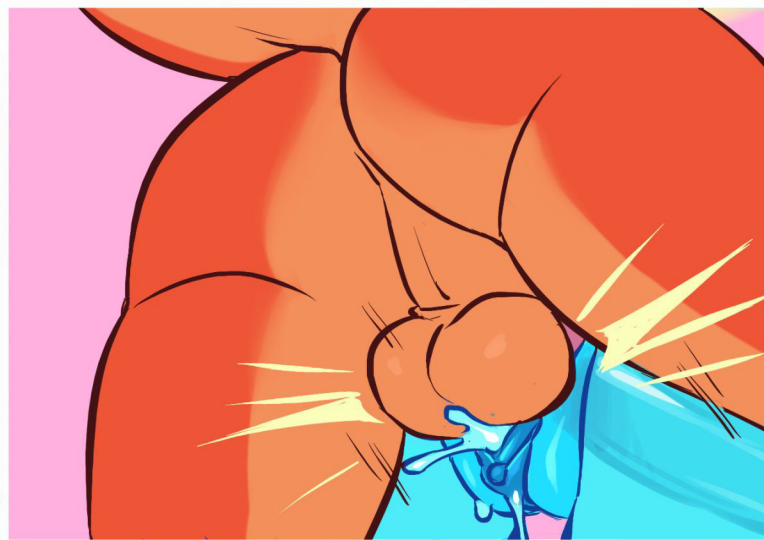

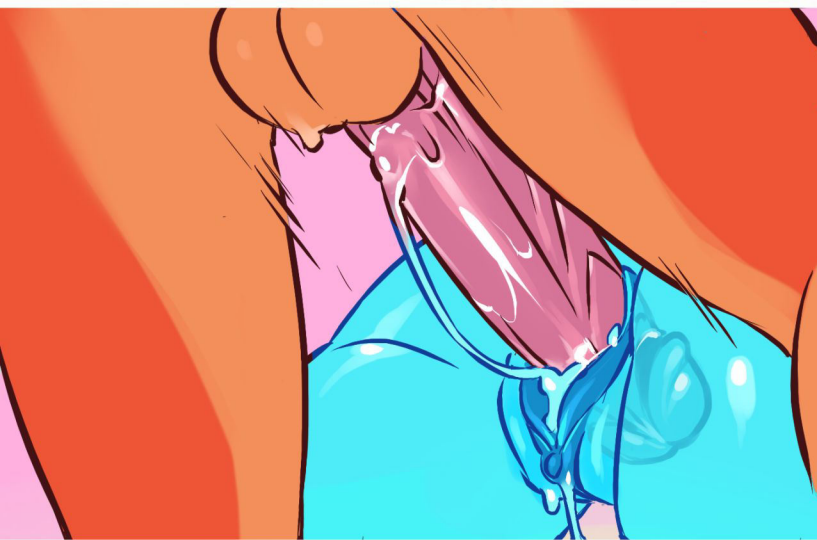

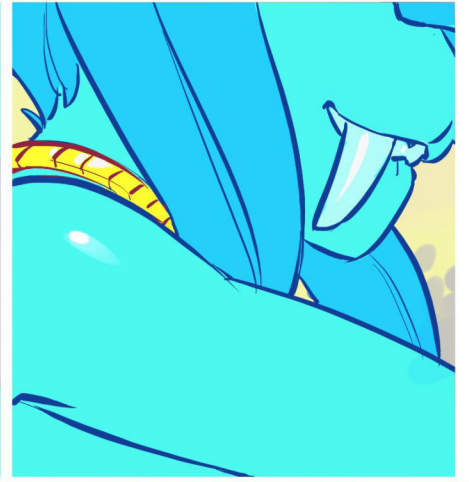

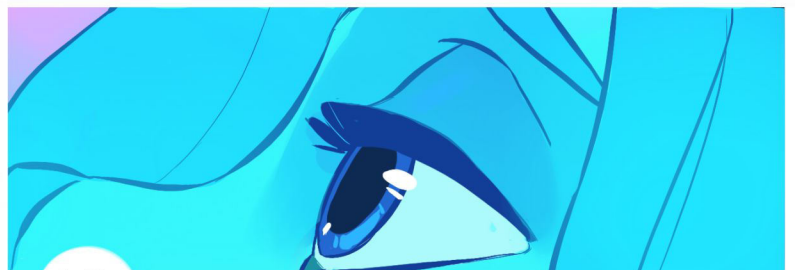

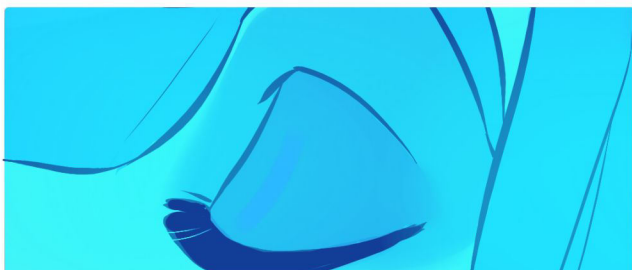

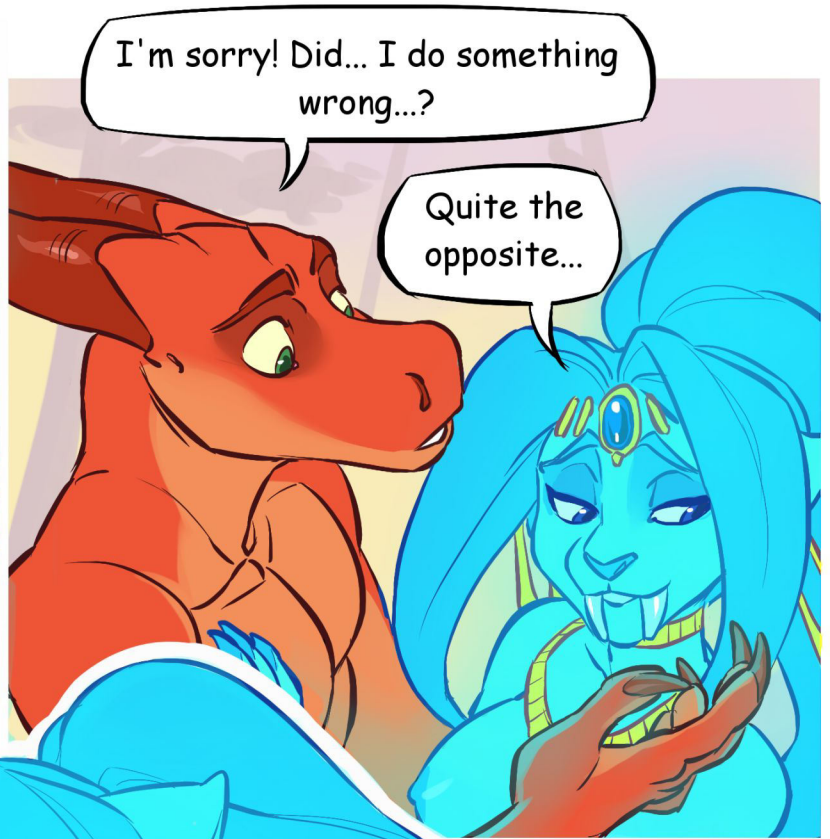

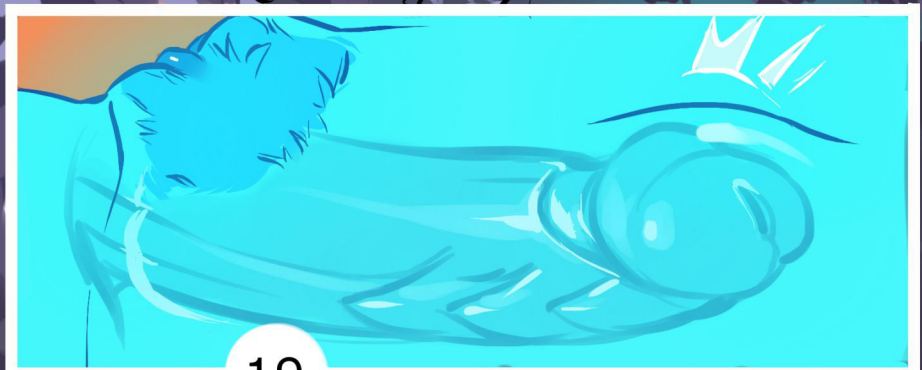

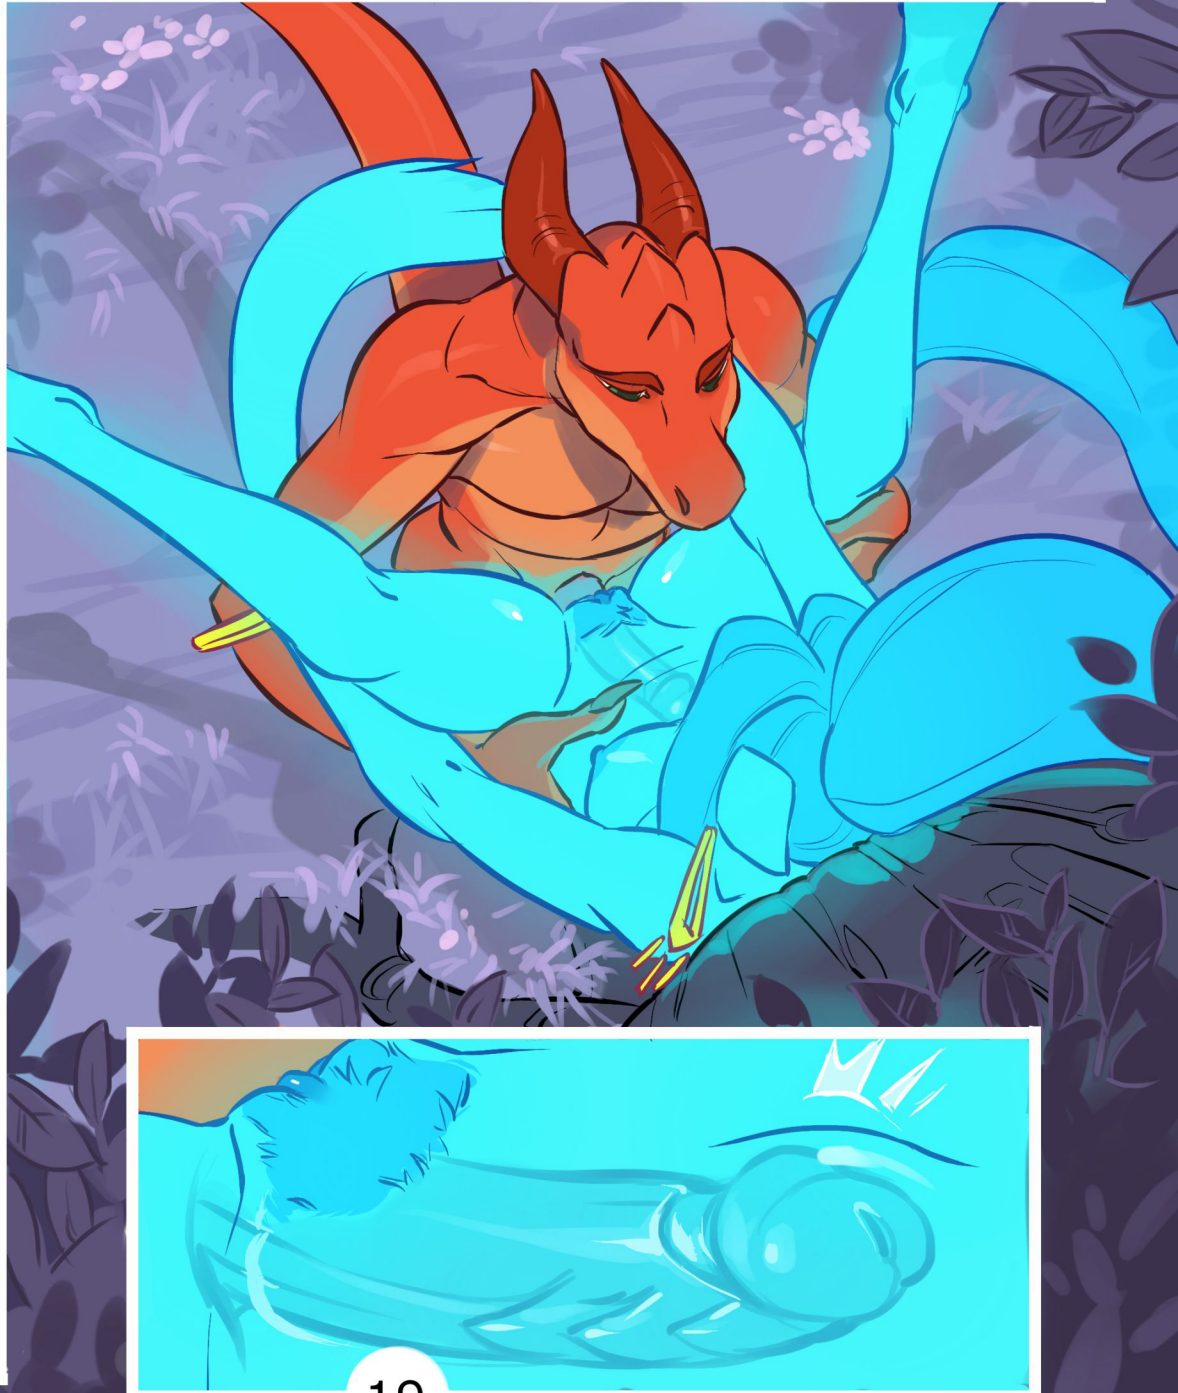

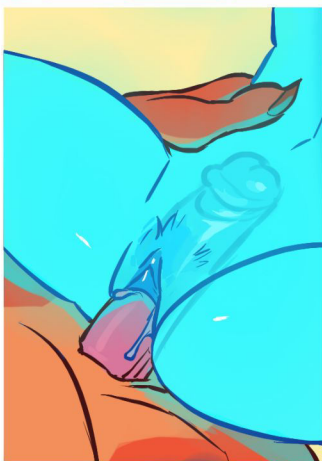

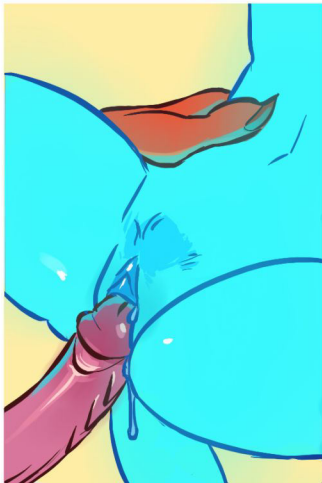

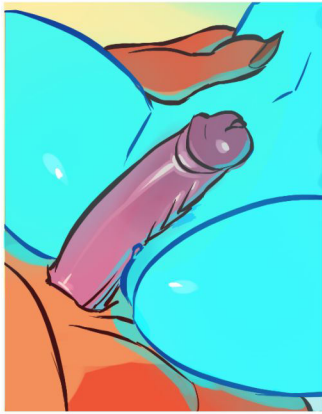

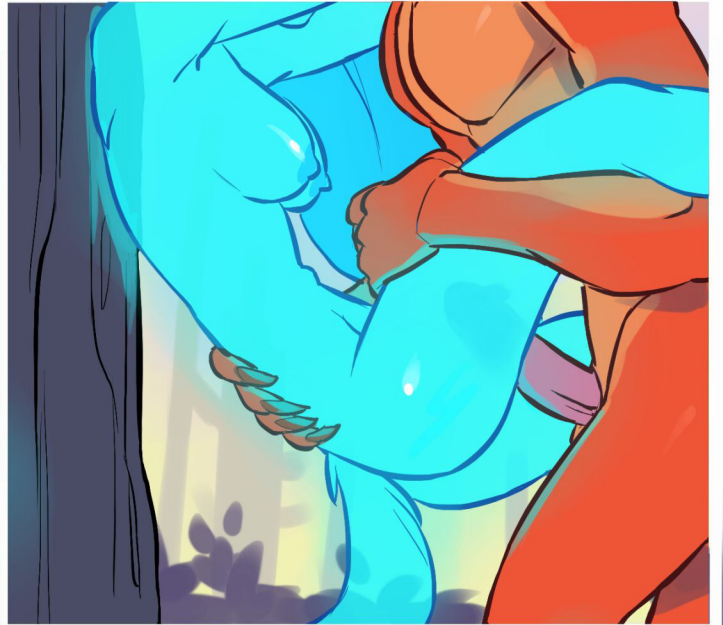

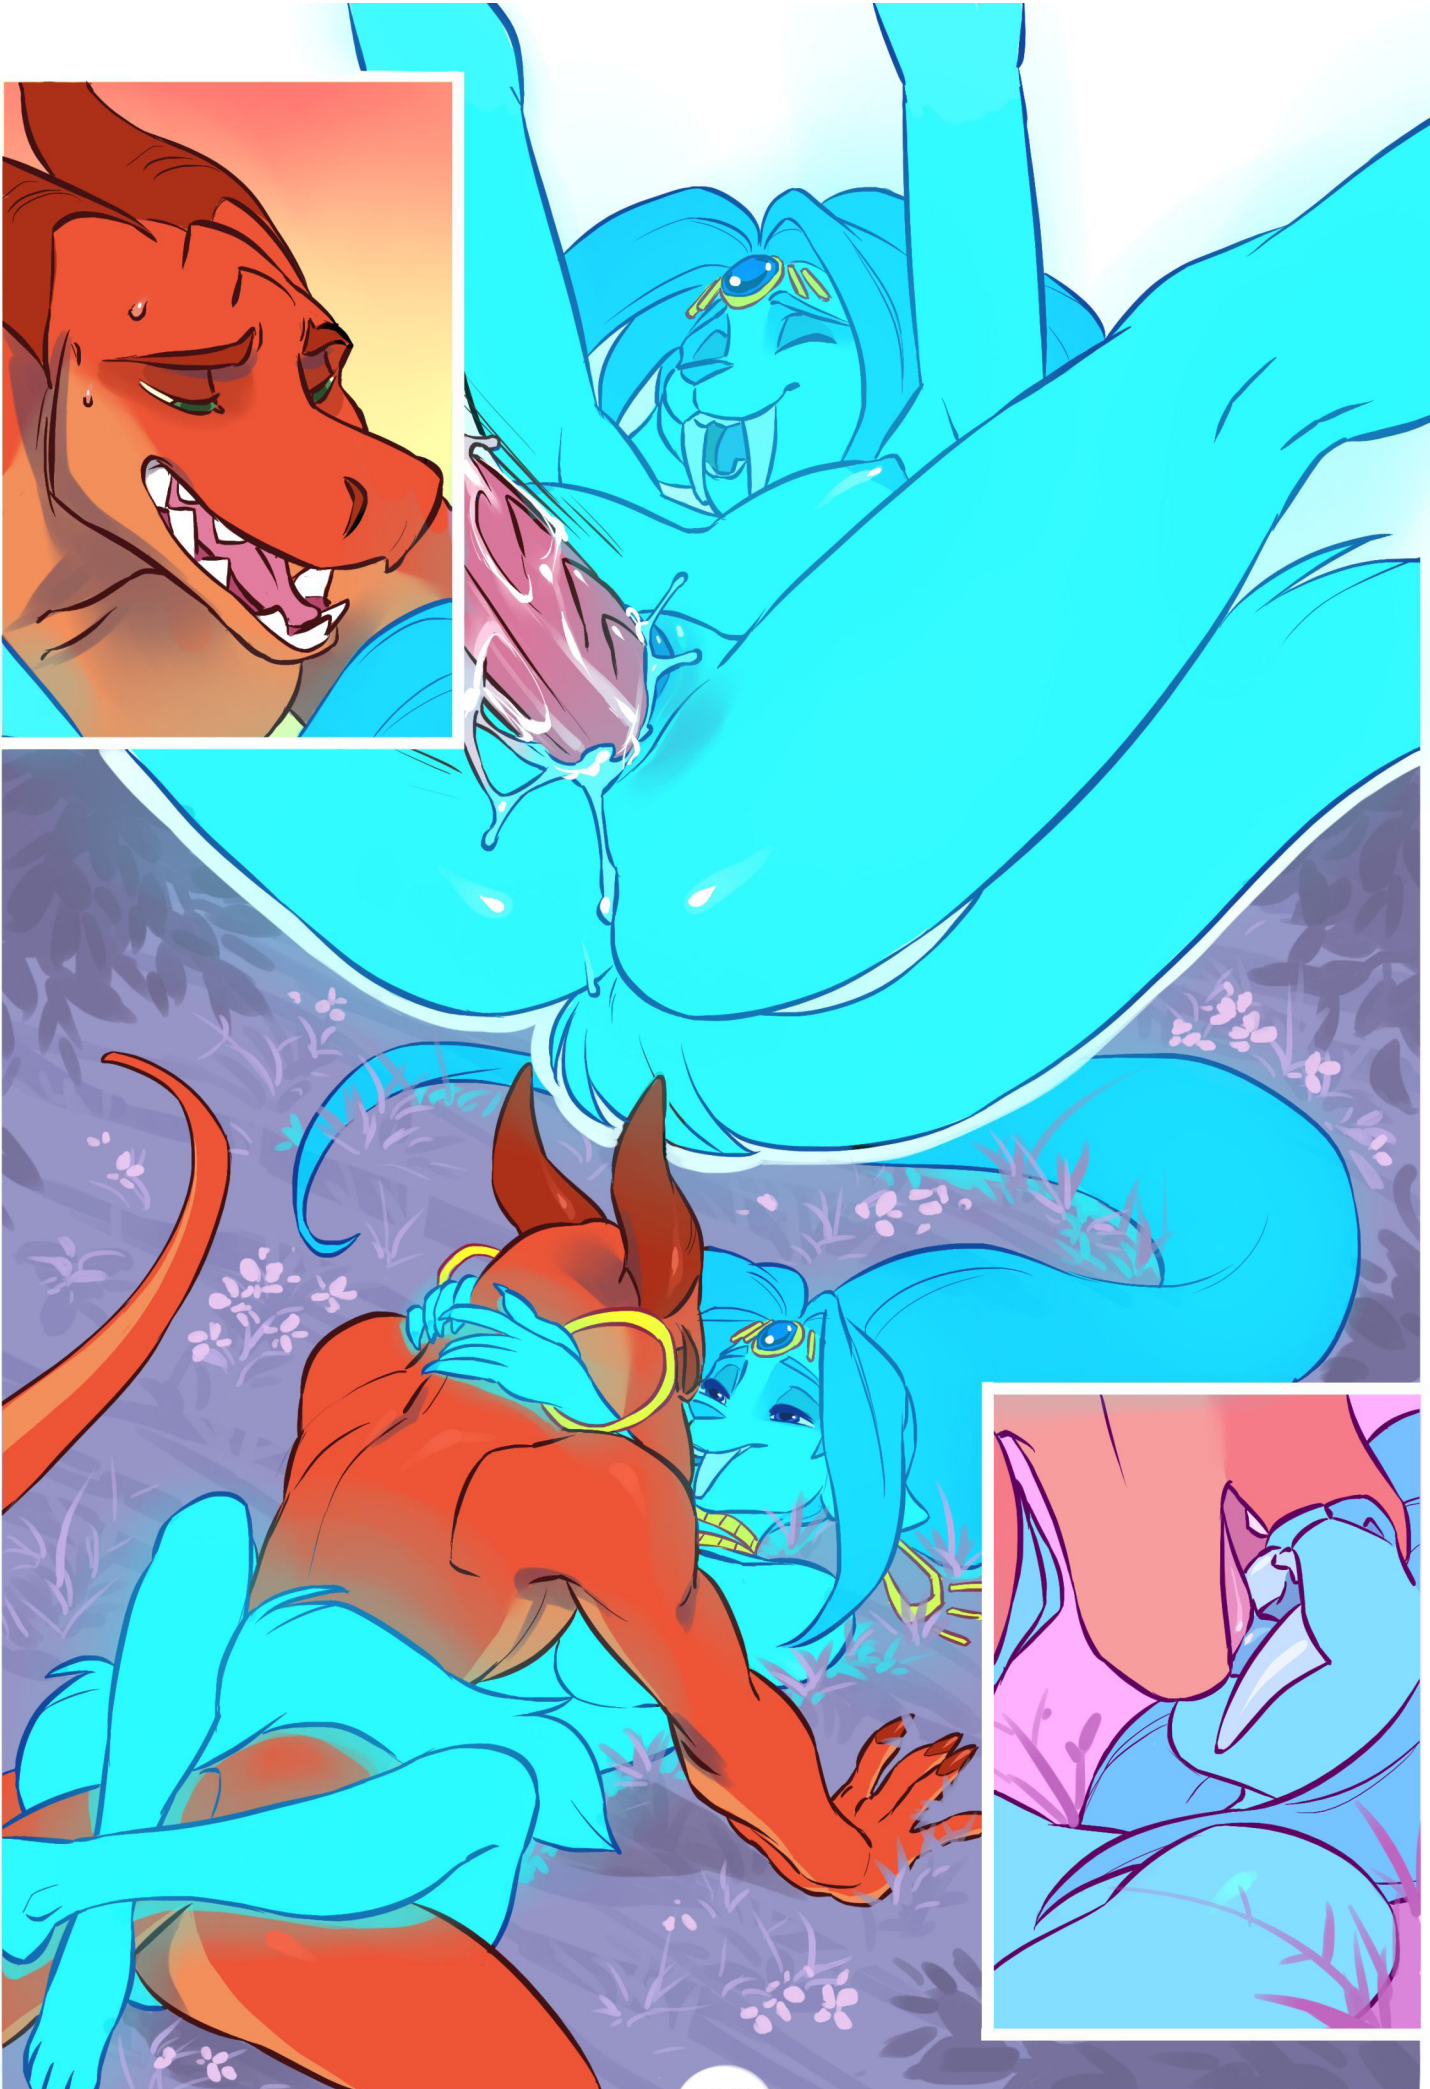

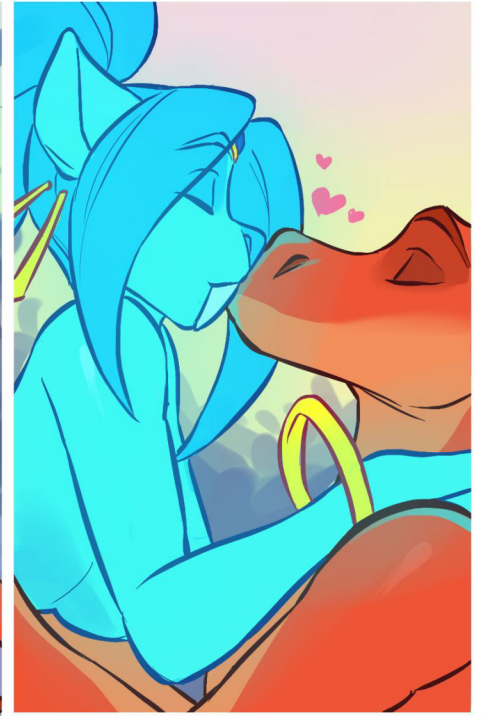

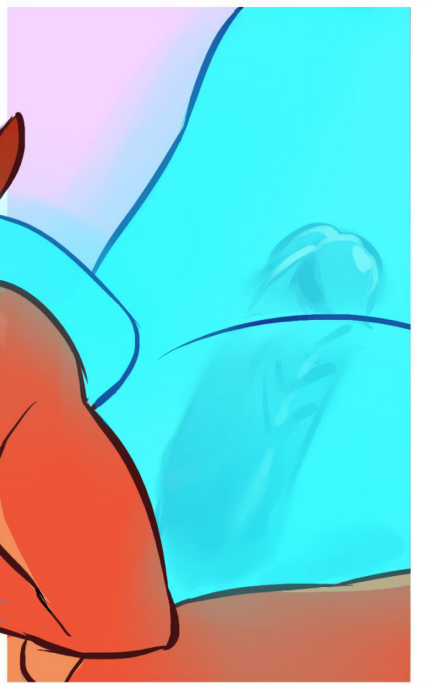

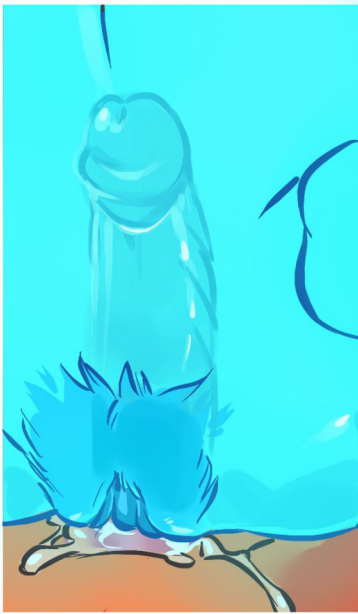

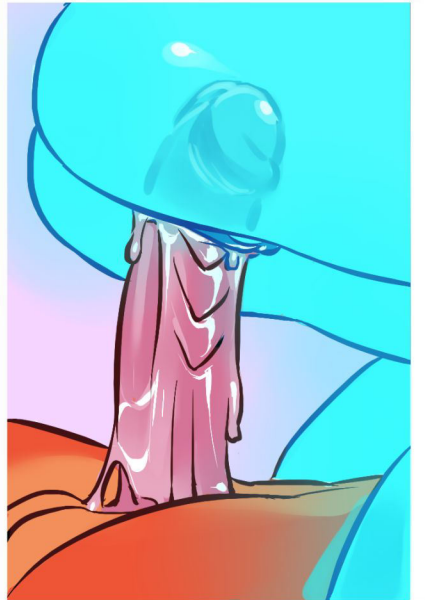

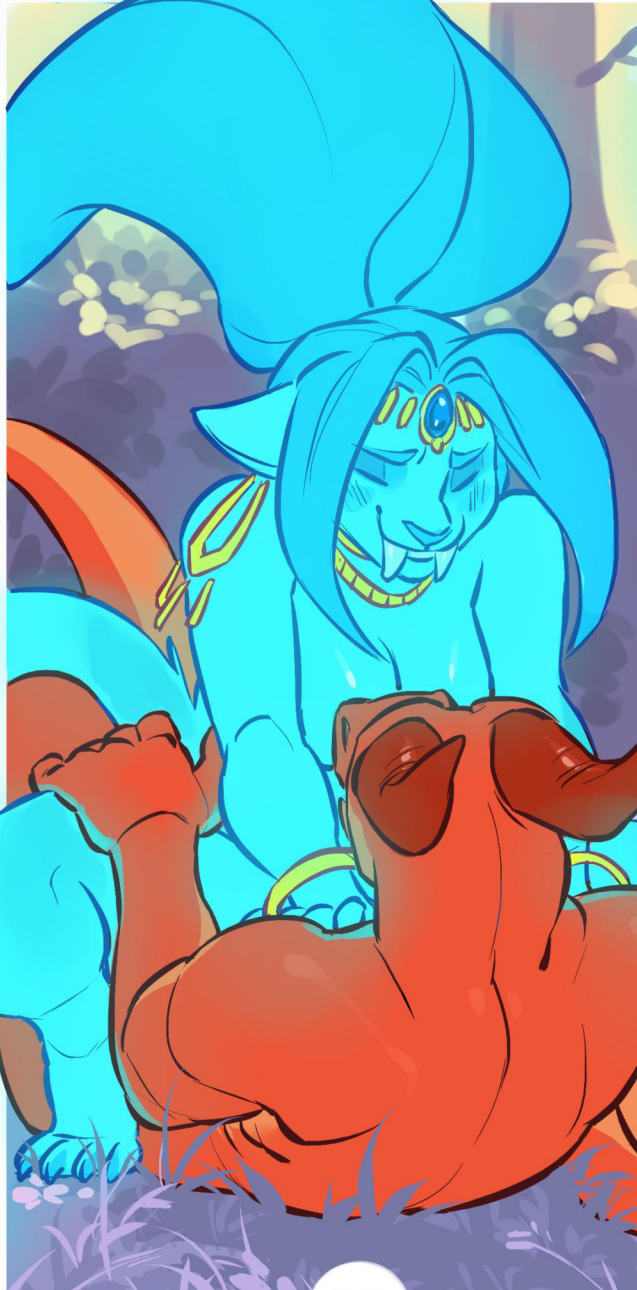

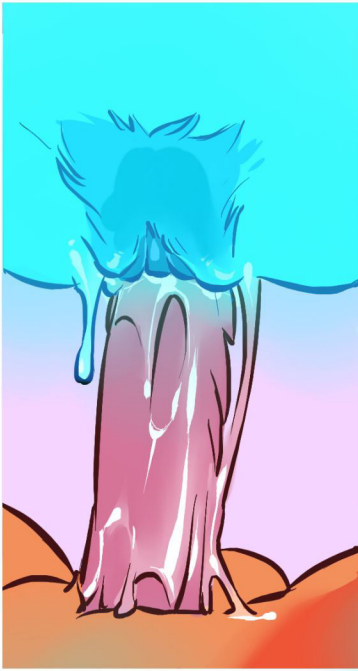

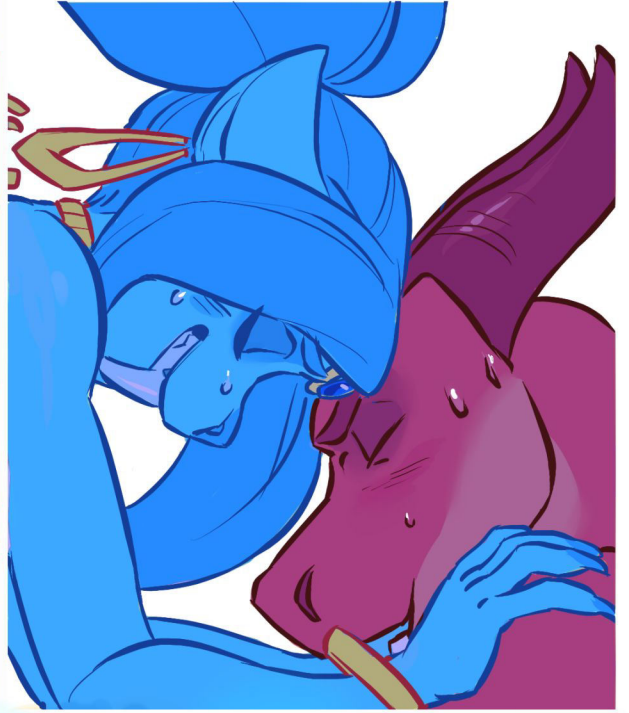

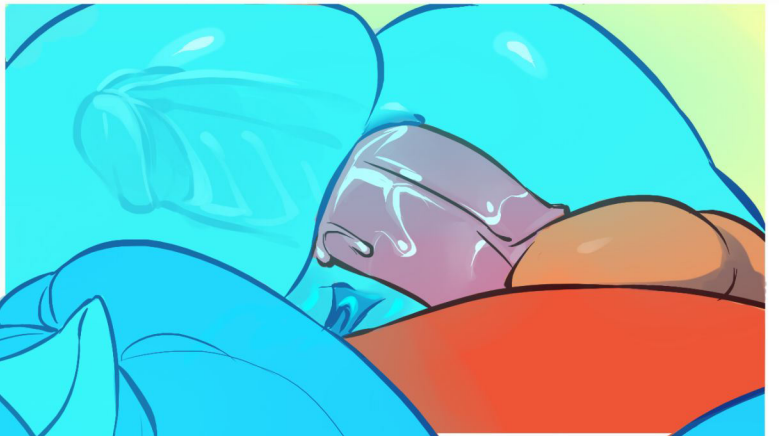

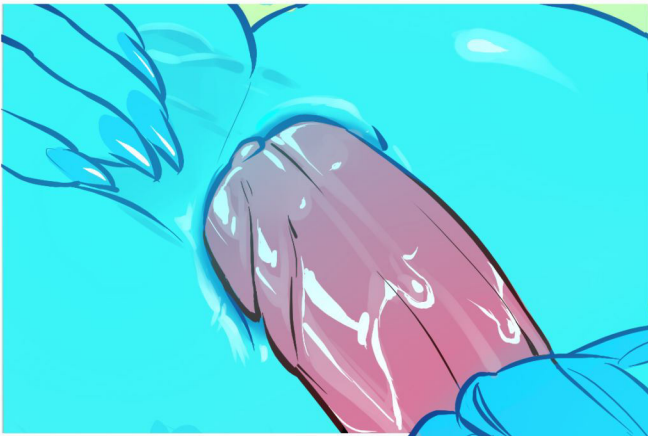

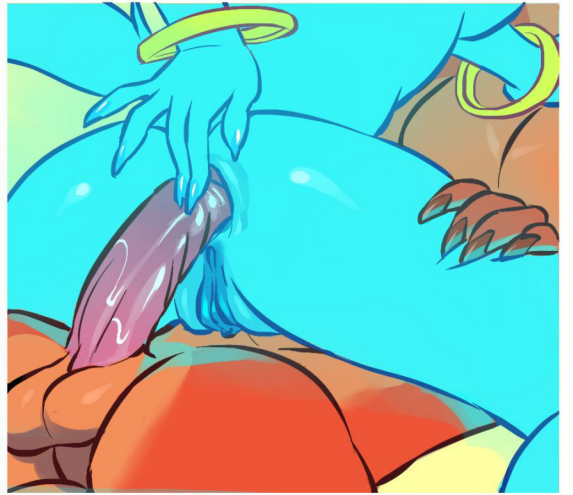

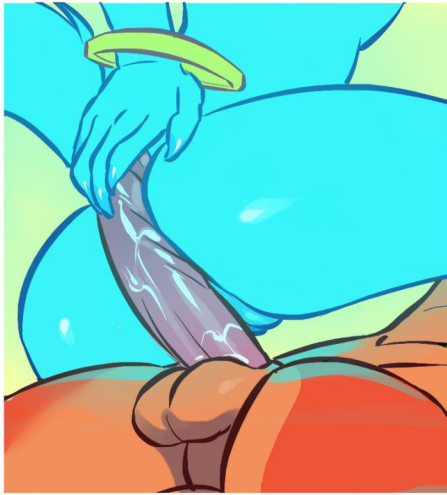

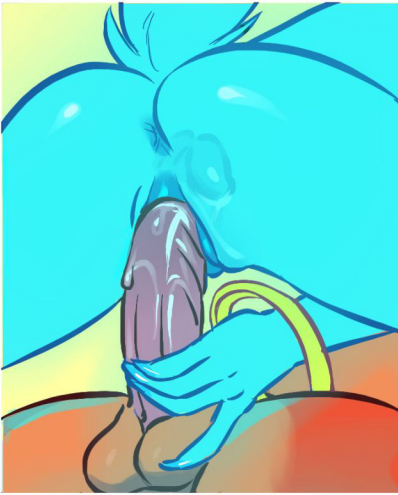

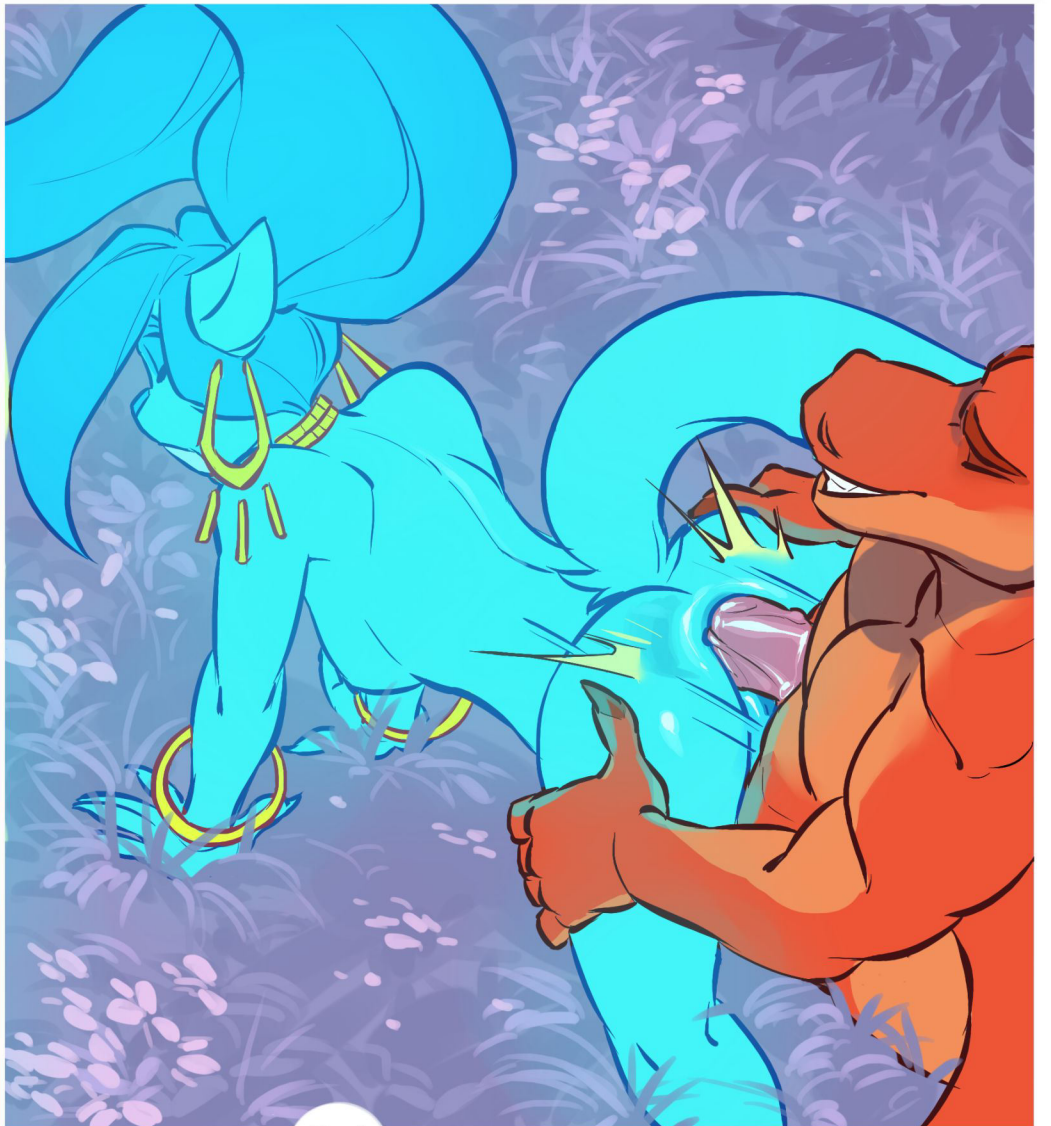

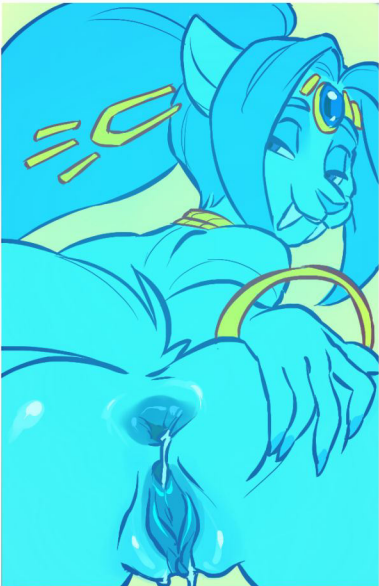

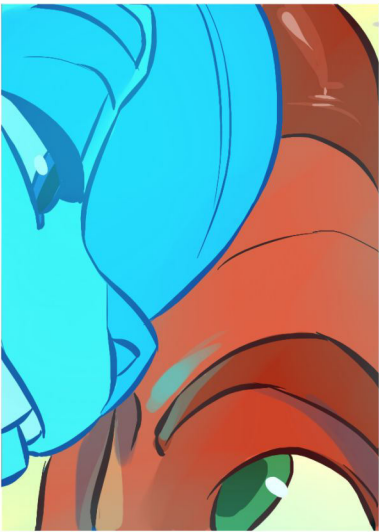

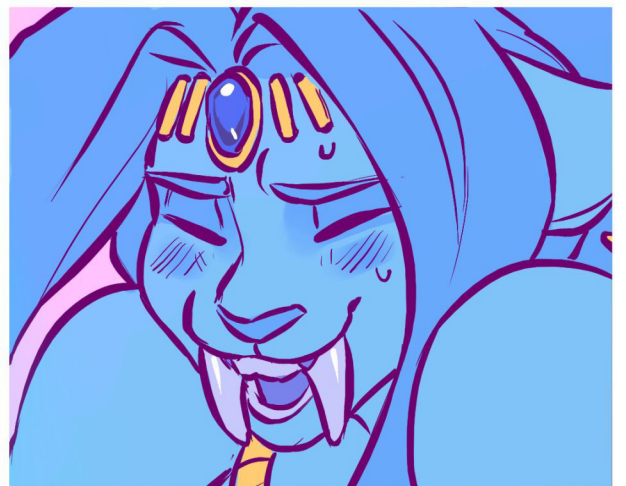

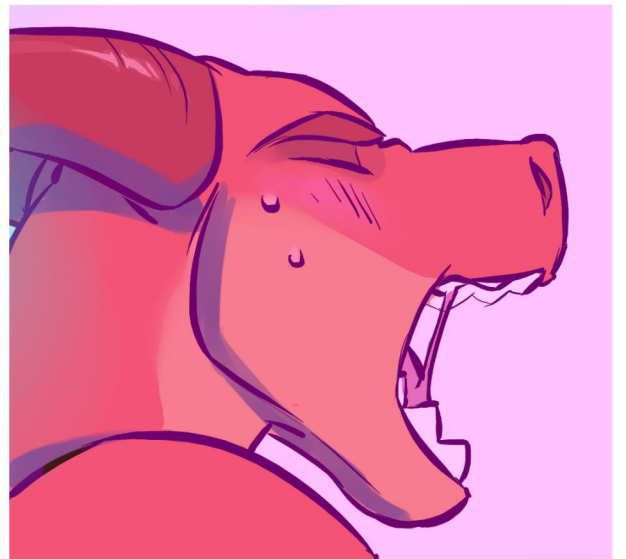

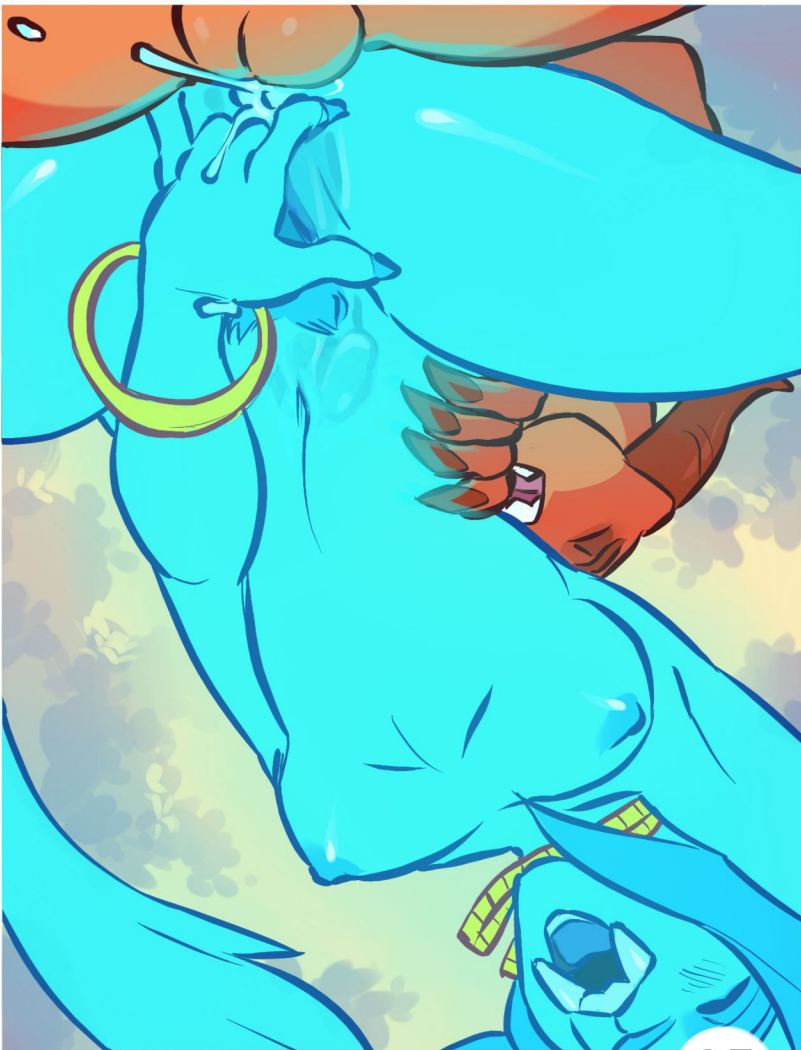

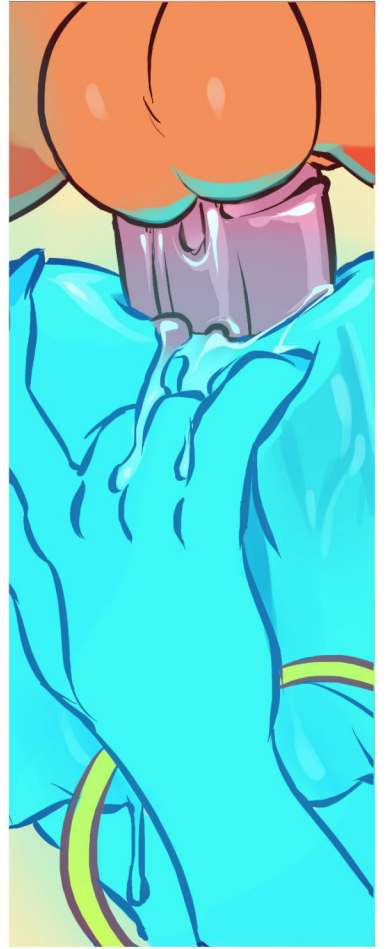

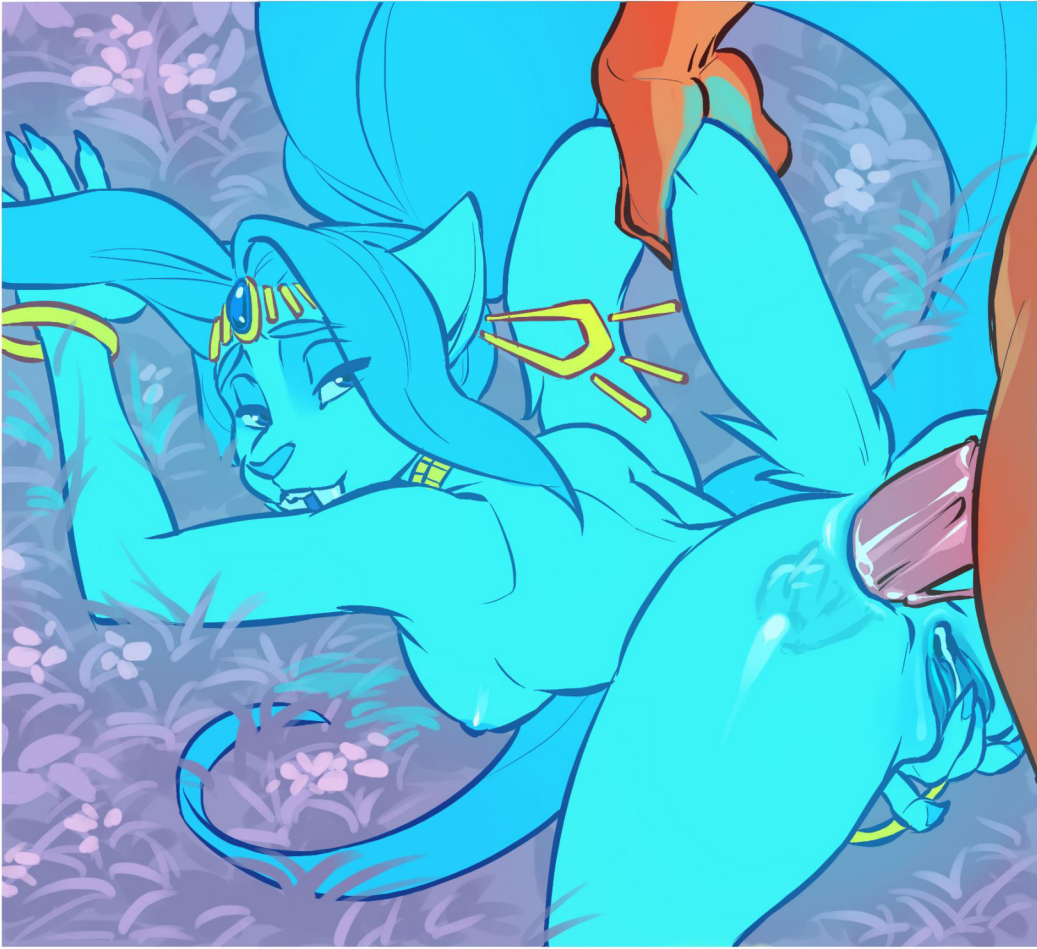

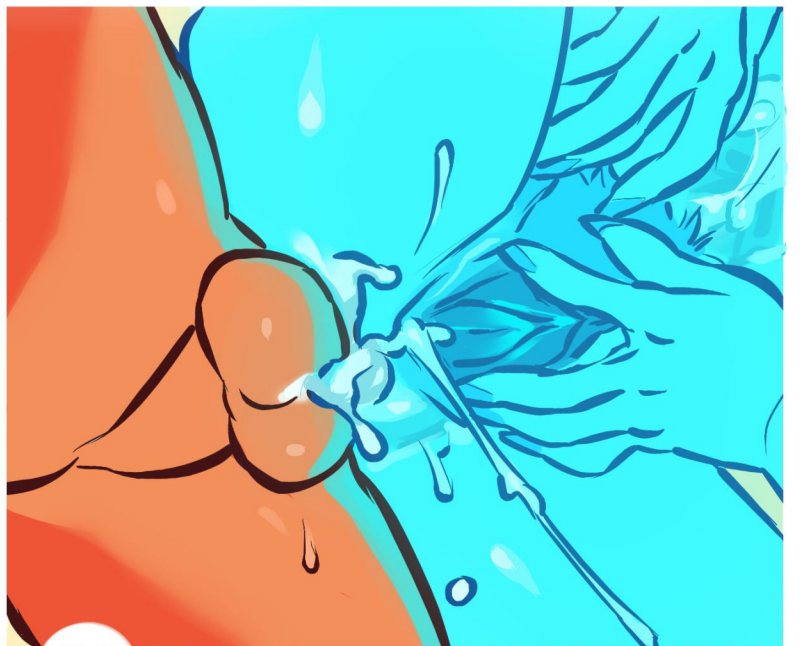

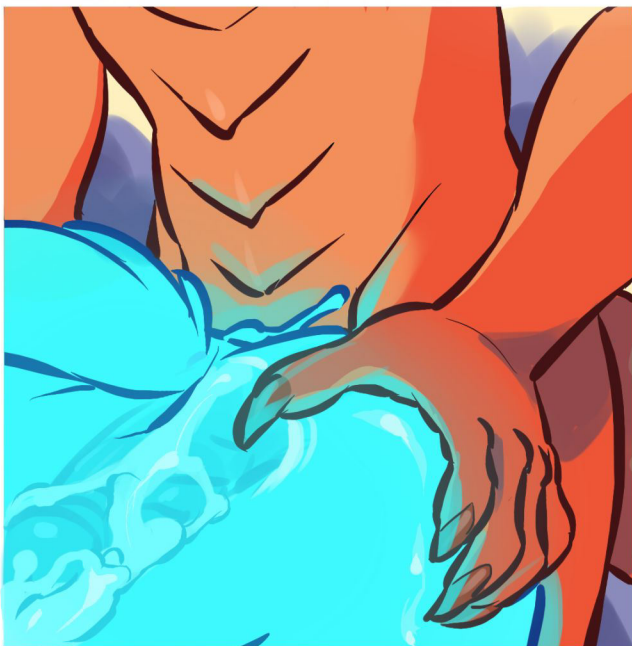

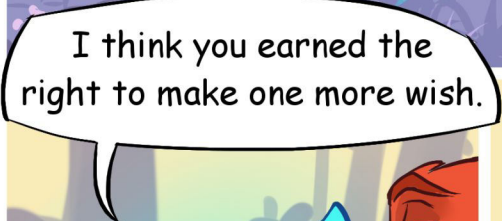

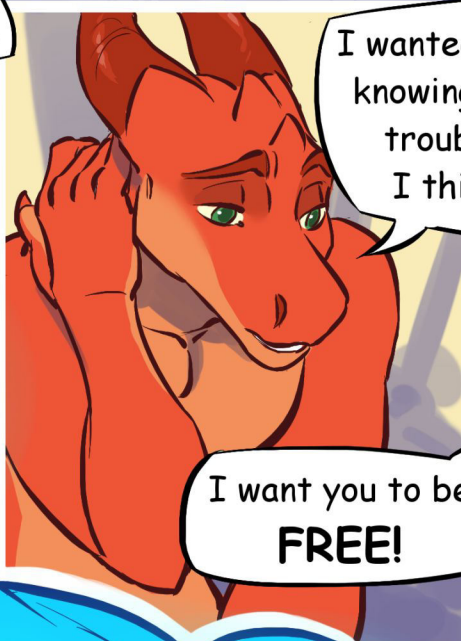

Mortal... You have granted my wish fully...

I'm glad to hear that.

I think you earned the right to make one more wish.

I wanted infinite wealth at first, but knowing myself... I would only bring trouble to my own head with it. I think I want something else.

I want you to be FREE!

What... did you... say...?

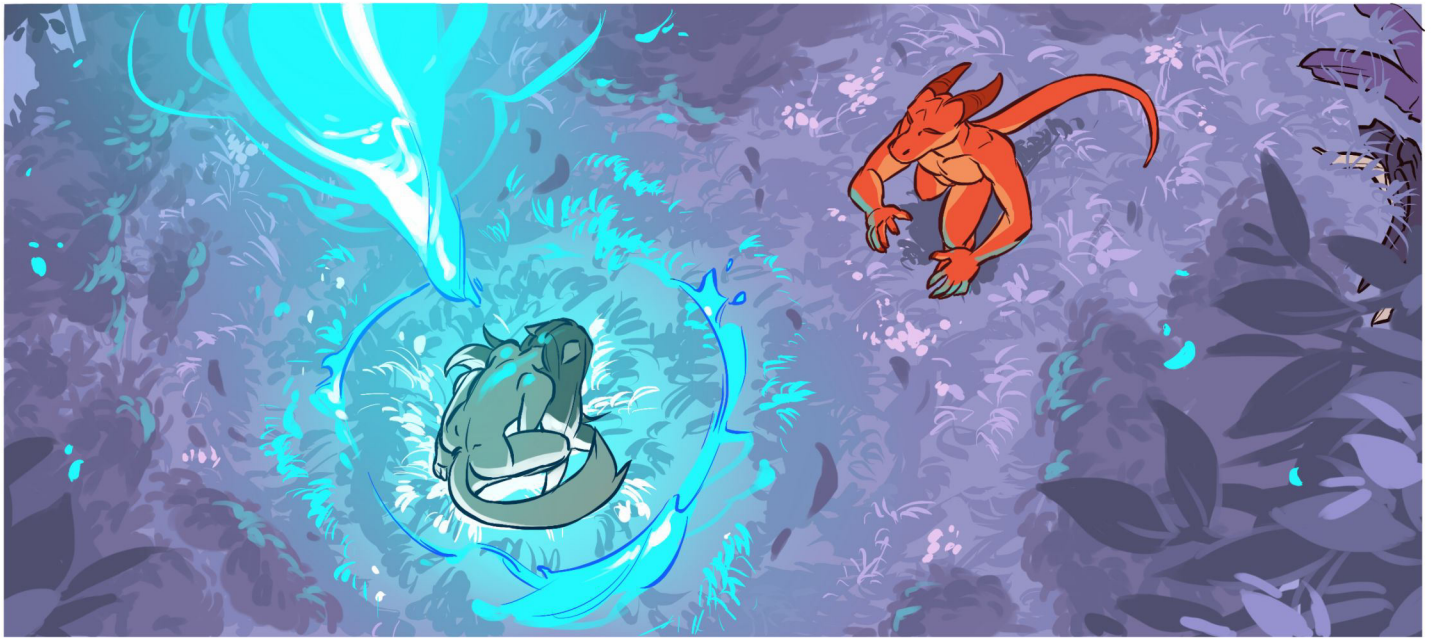

You gave back my life. The least I can do in return is to give back yours too.

It's only fair this way, isn't it?

So I want you to be FREE!

Thank you...

Here, take these.
You need them more than I do right now.

It's time for me to go.
I think I should find a new goal for my life.

And what about you?
Where will you be heading?

Me...?

I have... no one,
and nothing left...

Over those hundreds of years spent as a prisoner of the lantern, I've lost everything and everyone who was dear to me once.

I have nowhere to go back...

Would you like...
to come with me?

Maybe together it would be easier to find a new meaning for our life.

That sounds wonderful!

THE END

Thank you everyone!

I'm eternally grateful for all kind of support I got from you all to make this comic come true! I hope you enjoyed it, and I hope you would like to stay as my company on my long journey to become a better comic artist project by project. Thank you so much for all the feedback you gave me during the progress, and for pushing me forward to make what I like. I never want to stop making comics!

-Vik

