the back, often without realizing the issue is there. I'll take a nap, but the delays seem like forever (hence: lingering, shadow of a headache) because when I do go off to bed, I am often depressed (though when well, self-motivated) and I just feel like I'm not pushing enough at the end of most of my 16-hour shift, much less for a whole day. And it doesn't even have to go as far as the chronic fatigue I'm just getting going, but my productivity is not what it should be.

I have to say I have underestimated the color work, and reproduction-optimized time to do with Be-also-effect than without effect. On the other hand, it appears that Be-also has gotten better with their production, in some kind of optical negative-procedure. Also, I hope that there is a color Be-also 1/4" (also, color of the work on the Be-also is also possible. Thinking of which, any practical input on serious graphics programs would be greatly appreciated. I've been thinking about Adobe, but don't know what about it or any other software/hardware manufacturers.

On other fronts, I'm excited that some kind of Rebirth reprint is still possible, but would have to wait for production situations to allow it. We've agreed that the early Rebirth reprints, if we do them, will be color, rather than a black-and-white, and will need late editorial work. Doing more stories beyond the original is also possible, but will require doing more on the editorial side.

ANTARCTIC BLAST

... the bells toll

A January 14, 1990, Antarctic blizzard was just another example of the unpredictable weather that comes with the continent. Unfortunately, for the scientists on board, the weather was anything but benign. The blizzard was the worst in the history of the continent, and it was the worst in the history of the continent.

The weather was the worst in the history of the continent, and it was the worst in the history of the continent. The weather was the worst in the history of the continent, and it was the worst in the history of the continent. The weather was the worst in the history of the continent, and it was the worst in the history of the continent.
