

Scuba

The boatful of divers glides smoothly over the bright blue, tropical ocean. Out past the tiny islands... out past the sandbars to the darker waters of the coral reef. You carefully check your air tank, your mask, your mouthpiece. You don't want anything to go wrong. This is a time for fun, for adventure! You roll into the water and dive, swimming past the rocks covered with crabs and starfish, past the walls of pink coral, bubbles drifting overhead. Floating in water so clear, it feels like you are flying through the air. The perfect, relaxing vacation... What is that dark shadow, moving in the distance? It could be another diver... but it might be something else!
