When proposing a name for the system, please keep the following in mind:

- The small size and simplicity of the system.
- The cartoon art style and approachable theme.
- The overall vision of a recognizable and easy-to-use fantasy roleplaying system.
- Also DM doesn't want any more acronym jokes, so—!

List your proposals below:

FEMTO RPG

The acronym itself is an afterthought, the main draw for this is the fact that “femto”, being a scientific prefix, has the connotation of smallness, which is exactly what this system is about. It's also a callback to the previous versions that were christened MLPFMTORPG. Moreover, the name is fairly inoffensive, in that it doesn't confront new readers or veteran players with an unfamiliar or ostentatious name, nor does it make a hard sell on the setting. It is simply regarded as “the tiny rpg”.

Simple10, or s10

A descriptive name, short, easy to remember, and a cheeky play on words.
Sounds more like a system name than something tied to a specific setting.
s10, for when you typo d20

[Name of the setting's world] Tales

Classic naming styles. Already done, proved to be solid.
